French Bomb Well Timed

From UPI, CP

Some were vehemently critical, some non-committal and one or two Canadians even were in favor of what Gen. de Gaulle had to say in Paris Monday. But all observers found one thing to admire in the statements — the timing was, as they say, magnifique.

The de Gaulle declarations dropped on the provincial premiers' constitutional conference in Toronto like a bomb. They are bound to be the back-drop to the tabling of the first volume of the long-awaited bilingual and biculturalism in the House of Commons this week and they came just as Quebecers took a strong stand for their cause at the Estates General of Canada meeting at the weekend.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin, minding the store for Prime Minister Pearson in London, said the federal government would study de

Pearson Delays Comment

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson declined to make any immediate comment on President de Gaulle's Quebec statement when he arrived home from his week-long English visit.

He said the statement would be discussed in cabinet today "and if anything is to be said, I will say it in the House."

Pearson received a text of the statement from External Affairs Minister Paul Martin during a news conference. He said it was impossible to get the text while airborne because of radio interference.

COMMON MARKET
He could only agree with Martin's preliminary reaction given in the Commons.
Speaking in London, Pearson charged France with falling back on discredited nationalism, emphasizing Canada would reject outside intervention in solving its unity problem, and suggested France was wrong in blocking Britain's entry to the European Common Market.

NO NAMES
During his Mansion House Speech, Pearson did not mention de Gaulle by name, nor did he specifically name France as the country blocking the British market bid.

But it was obvious to guests that Pearson had de Gaulle and his policies in mind.

Main, said Pearson, should

Freedom Political Poison?

OTTAWA (CP) — Are honors from Britain a signal of doom for Canadian prime ministers?

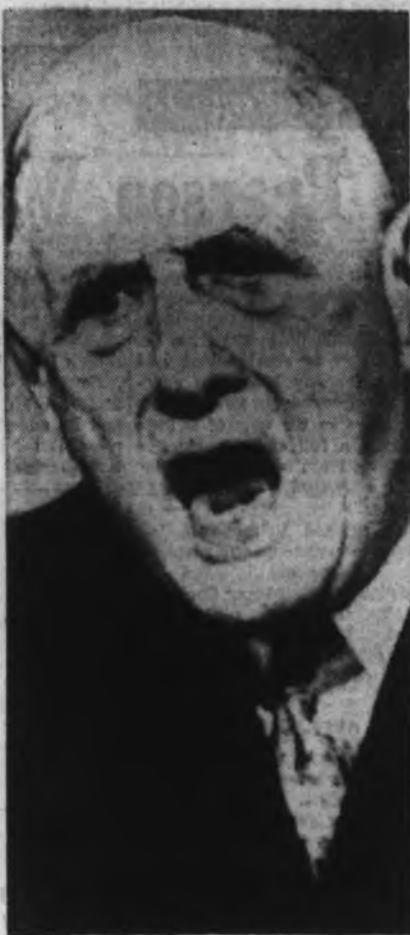

John Diefenbaker didn't say this in so many words, but he noted these facts in an interview Monday:

As prime minister in 1955, Louis St. Laurent received the freedom of the City of London, and was defeated in the general election of 1958.

As prime minister in 1963, Diefenbaker himself received the freedom of the City of London in February, and was defeated in the general election in April.

Prime Minister Pearson received the freedom of the City of London Monday.

"Further observation on my part is unnecessary," Diefenbaker said.

The president speaks

- Sovereignty for Quebec
- Devaluation for Dollar
- Closed Door for Britain

'Radical Change Needed'

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle, in a wide-ranging press conference Monday, virtually closed the door on British entry into the European Common Market.

De Gaulle said Britain still isn't ready to join Common Market even though the British government has taken steps for financial order — a reference to the recent 14.3-per-cent devaluation of the pound.

In London, British officials indicated de Gaulle's criticism would not lead to withdrawal of the British application for membership.

On Britain's immediate entry into the Common Market, de Gaulle said: "... As sweet as dreams are, realities are there."

Ottawa Blamed

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle of France called Monday for transformation of Canada's political system to project Quebec province "to the level of a sovereign state with mastery of its national existence."

"Of course, this state of Quebec, freely and in equality, must work out with the rest of Canada the details of their co-operation ... and also to face up to the United States invasion," de Gaulle told a news conference.

He charged the Ottawa government with putting French-speaking Canadians "in a position of inferiority."

Holding forth flamboyantly before about 1,000 reporters from around the world, de Gaulle said there is another condition for the solution of "these great problems" in Canada.

"That is the French community on both sides of the Atlantic should organize itself."

Give Stronger Impulse

"In this respect, things are well under way and the forthcoming meeting, we hope, of the Quebec government and the French republic in Paris should give yet a stronger impulse to this great French work, essential to our century."

Also needed for this work were "all the French of Canada who do not reside in Quebec."

"I think in particular of these 250,000 Acadians in New Brunswick who, too, have kept for France — in language and spirit — a very moving fidelity."

De Gaulle waved his arms at times as he told the reporters in rousing terms of his triumphant procession from Quebec City to Montreal in July.

He referred to his Montreal shout of "Vive le Quebec libre" — a "free Quebec" slogan used by separatists in the province. It sparked an uproar which caused the French president to cut short his Canadian visit without going to Ottawa.

In Canada's biggest city, Montreal, "the unfurling of the liberating passion was such that France had the sacred duty to reply solemnly."

Summed Up All My Thought

"That's what I did. I summed up all my thought in crying, 'Vive le Quebec libre!'"

De Gaulle charged that "Anglo-Saxon preponderance" in Canada combined with the "activity, called federal but obviously partial of the Canadian government at Ottawa" to produce an increasingly inferior position for "the French" and expose to "growing danger their language, substance and character."

But despite all, there had been a sweeping renewal among "the French people across the Atlantic."

The French president consistently referred to French-speaking Canadians as simply "French."

In view of this renewal, said de Gaulle, he had been invited to Quebec by Premier Johnson.

"That Quebec should be free ... was the irreversible situation demonstrated and accelerated by the public spirit during my trip."

'Return To Gold'

PARIS (UPI) — The week-long gold-buying rampage, with its threats to the U.S. dollar, showed signs of waning in London and Zurich Monday but hit a frantic new high here.

At the same time President de Gaulle denied any French responsibility for the run on gold, and launched a bitter attack against the dollar in a news conference.

He repeated earlier demands for a return to an international gold standard — something the U.S. has repeatedly rejected.

His attack was regarded as close to a declaration of financial "war" against the U.S. and Britain.

Gold dealers said it would not be known until markets reopen today whether de Gaulle's attack would touch off a hectic new gold-buying spree.

Warships Leave Turkish Harbor

MERSIN, Turkey (AP) — Turkish warships waiting since last week in this southern Mediterranean port for a possible landing on Cyprus steamed off toward an undisclosed destination early today. The latest developments followed a report from Ankara that the cabinet was in a marathon session.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Greece and Cyprus replied "very positively" Monday to Secretary-General Thant's call for restraint to preserve peace in the eastern Mediterranean. Both were said to be conciliatory.

McNamara Going

Bank to Choose Defence Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence Secretary Robert McNamara will be selected as president of the World Bank on Wednesday, it was learned Monday night.

McNamara, U.S. defence chief since 1961, will resign from President Johnson's cabinet to take the $40,000-a-year tax-free post, succeeding George Woods.

The selection of McNamara will be formally accomplished when the board of directors of the international lending organization meets Wednesday.

By custom, the United States nominates a candidate for president of the World Bank. The role goes to the United States because it is the largest single financial contributor to the bank.

McNamara's nomination was forwarded to the bank last week. It was understood President Johnson concurred in the move.

The selection of McNamara for the World Bank job had been reported earlier by the Washington Post and the New York Times.

'It's Time to Call Alaska's Bluff'

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett kept silent Monday on a proposal for an all-American ferry route between Alaska and Seattle, but at least one B.C. minister suggested that now might be the time to call Governor Walter Hickey's bluff.

The present impasse was precipitated last week when Mr. Bennett announced that the Queen of Prince Rupert would not be put back into the Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert service until next April 1.

The $5,500,000 flagship of the B.C. ferry fleet has been undergoing extensive repairs at a North Vancouver shipyard since she was heavily damaged on a rock near Alert Bay last Aug. 11.

'FULL OF GOODWILL'

When the premier was asked Monday to comment on a formal request by the governor for permission to operate Alaskan state ferries from the present southern terminal at Prince Rupert to Seattle, Mr. Bennett said:

"I've no comment to make. Christmas is coming and I'm full of goodwill."

Portuguese Floods Kill 316

LISBON (AP)—The death toll from weekend floods that struck west-central Portugal has risen to 316, the interior ministry announced Monday night.

Reports throughout the day told of further discoveries of mud-caked bodies beneath the ruins of dwellings and in lakes and streams after heavy rains led to flooding of an area of 330 square miles near Lisbon.

Victoria's Gesture Made It Real Christmas

For a week before Christmas last year, a small, neat woman appeared in the toy store each day, to check on the gifts she had laid away for her four young children. Discharged from hospital on Dec. 17 after removal of a growth in her neck, she had no idea how she would pay for the toys, or give the children any of the extras that would make their Christmas special.

Half of her mind was with one of the children, also in hospital, but due home from the warm, decorated ward to share a more sombre day with the rest of the family. "When I got the 500 Fund cheque in the mail just before Christmas, it was a real Godsend," she said. "That $30 meant toys, turkey and all the trimmings — we were even able to get a box of oranges and some nuts.

"It meant that when my daughter came home it was to a real Christmas, and it was all made possible by the people of Victoria."
With a month to go in the annual appeal by the Colonist, Victorians poured nearly $300 into the fund Monday, to assure each recipient at least $3.46 to spend on extras.

Pupils in Division 5 at Glen Lake elementary school sent along $8 from the sale of lawn furniture made by the class.
A contribution also arrived in the office from former Victorians now living in Halifax.

'Time to Call Bluff'

to declare the waters of the inside passage "bays and sounds" which would enable state ferries to provide their own link to Seattle.

COSTLY DUPLICATION.

Trade Minister Ralph Lofmark said Monday the proposed all-American ferry route would be a costly duplication of the B.C. service, and would also undoubtedly cut into revenues of the Queen of Prince Rupert.

He was asked whether in the circumstances he would recommend B.C. chartering a CPR vessel laid up for the winter months in Victoria to provide temporary service, as requested by Alaska.

UP TO ALASKA

"Do you play poker?" Mr. Lofmark asked newsmen. "I think it's time we checked"—waited for someone else to act. His remark was interpreted as meaning the next move is up to Alaska and there is at least some official thinking the Governor Hickel may be bluffing when he talks about providing an inter-state ferry connection in competition with B.C.

Some officials here feel it would be too expensive for Alaska to set up an adequate inter-state service, and argue that the disruption of present services between points within the state would be great while new ships were built, even if cost was not the over-riding factor.

U.S. REGISTRY

Earlier this year Mr. Lofmark had talks with Alaska representatives on the possibility of amending the protective U.S. Jones Act. This, proponents claim, would allow the Queen of Prince Rupert to expand its traffic by carrying commercial trucks bound from other U.S. points to Alaska. (The U.S. law requires that all goods carried between American ports be in ships of U.S. registry).

B.C. ferry officials seemed less than enthusiastic at the time because they claimed that in tourist season there would be no space on the ferry for big trailer trucks. Even on the twice-weekly winter service, a large share of business was non-commercial.

There is another excellent reason for B.C. not to support an easing of the Jones Act, government spokesmen said. That is, the law now requires Oregon and Washington timber interests shipping to the eastern U.S. seaboard to use American ships.

KEY ADVANTAGE

B.C. lumber exporters, using cheaper foreign vessels, thus gain a competitive advantage in one the province's most important markets abroad.

In Juneau, Alaska, the 17th U.S. Coast Guard district said Monday it had asked for an early decision from Washington, D.C., on Governor Hickel's application.

Rear Admiral Joseph R. Scullion, district commander, said the state's request was forwarded Saturday to Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, along with a request that a decision be made quickly.

Nerves, Weight Unaffected By Hysterectomy Itself

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you give me some facts about the results of a hysterectomy such as nervousness, weight gain, etc.? I had a partial hysterectomy (just the uterus) last fall.—Mrs. B.J.D.

It doesn't have any effect on nerves or weight unless you let it.

Like any other surgery, you need time to recuperate from the operation, but it makes no particular change in your life and activities except that pregnancy no longer is possible.

A good deal of folklore has developed concerning hysterectomy, and (understandably) women who have had the operation are likely to blame on it whatever other problems may develop.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently I have seen devices to pierce your ears, small loops with springs on them, and you wear them several days and your ears are pierced. Would you recommend them? How should you care for your ears afterward?—B.A.

Sorry, I can't recommend them because I can't see any way of being positive that infection will not occur. That's why I cling to the same advice on this: Let your doctor do it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a double hernia but they don't protrude too much and don't bother me when I am walking. I am 46 and do not attempt to do any strenuous lifting, but I want to put my mind at rest.

I just can't see having an operation as the condition doesn't appear to bother me that much.—D.S.

If you expect me to put your mind at rest, you've knocked at the wrong door. The risk is that if a hernia does begin to "bother you that much," the hernia or rupture will have become larger and more difficult to repair. Or it may even become strangulated, which means that emergency surgery will be necessary to save your life as well as to relieve the utter agony of that phase of the trouble.

The only sensible advice I can give you is to have your doctor examine you, find out how far each hernia has progressed, and tell you whether to have the surgery now, or whether you can safely wait a little while—with periodic examinations to see how things are doing.

A hernia doesn't get better by itself. All it can do is get worse, and the smartest patient is the one who has the surgical repair done before the damage is too great, and while he is still in good health will tolerate the operation with comparative ease.

In Rome, foreign ministry officials said Monday Italy believes that a decision about a British bid for entry into the European Common Market should be made by all six members and not by the head of one of its states.

WORK OUT POSITION

They added that Italy will get together immediately with other countries who support the British application to work out a common position towards statements made earlier in the day by de Gaulle.

The press conference — his 16th since he returned to power in 1958 — gave de Gaulle the opportunity to present his first reaction to Britain's devaluation of the pound sterling Nov. 18. Britain devalued in hopes of strengthening its financial situation.

De Gaulle contended Britain's entry now into the Common Market would wreck the community.

"The present Common Market is incompatible with the British economy the way it is," he said. "A radical transformation is needed for Britain to be able to melt into the Continent."

tion of the United Nations' charter.

Back in Toronto, Saskatchewan Premier Thatcher, had little to say, other than "just that I wish Gen. de Gaulle would mind his own business."

Premier Robarts of Ontario said:

"I don't intend being drawn into an international debate with Gen. de Gaulle. All I can say is I don't agree with him."

Newfoundland's Joey Smallwood:

GENERAL ACCLAIMED

Separatist leader Pierre Bourgault, on a two week visit to Paris to promote separatism, acclaimed de Gaulle for "marking a new point in the escalation in favor of an independent Quebec."

He said that as a result of the latest remarks, nobody would be able to say anymore that the famous "long live free Quebec" call in Montreal last July "had been made under the stress of emotion."

MP'S WISH

Two MPs had something to say. In Toronto, conference observer Roger Regimbal of Quebec, appeared distressed.

"The only thing I want to say," Regimbal said, "is that I wish de Gaulle had seen more of Quebec, and found the true temper of the Quebec people," before he went on his "Quebec libre" campaign.

At a speaking engagement in Regina, new Conservative leader Robert Stanfield termed de Gaulle's statement "very unusual for a foreign government."

GREAT MAJORITY

"I am convinced that the great majority of people within Quebec want to remain Canadians, although there are dissatisfactions in Quebec that will require changes."

Stanfield's predecessor in the

Tory hierarchy, John Diefenbaker, speaking in Ottawa, said Pearson must not "pussyfoot again" by reacting mildly to the latest from de Gaulle.

HIS PREDICTION

"I predict then (last July after the Montreal fiasco) that the uncertain and pusillanimous stand taken by the prime minister... would only lead de Gaulle to believe he could say anything and get away with it."

Tory back-bencher Rob Webb

of the Ontario riding of Hastings-Frontenac, asked in the House of Commons whether MacEachen whether "he would confer with his counterpart in France to have the French president committed to an institution."

Speaker Lamoureux hastily cut off Webb from saying anything further. He said Webb should know his words were out of order in the Commons and unparliamentary.

be a central and integral part of a new and united Europe.

It should prevent Europe becoming an isolated third force and, feeling this way, he believed "It is shortsighted and wrong for any European country to oppose or put unnecessary obstacles in the way of Britain playing a full and constructive part, as I am sure it would be, in the evolution of a united Europe."

He praised Britain's leadership in developing an independent Commonwealth. But he pleaded for a stronger Commonwealth, saying that without the good will and support of Britain and other older members "the Commonwealth will not survive."

LOUD APPLAUSE

"If it should fail, let the failure not be through any fault of understanding, patience or effort on our part."

Canada's own problems of federalism and national unity would be solved "by us and not by outside intervention in our domestic affairs," Pearson said. The remarks brought a loud round of applause.

OLD DOCTRINE

As for the North Atlantic alliance, "France, in due course, repudiated the whole idea of collective security, falling back on the old and discredited doctrine of national defence by national action..."

While he was in London, Pearson received the freedom of the city.

He held his news conference

But it won't be rebuilt — the congregation plans to use engineering genius to move it in one piece to a new foundation.

Turning to the Middle East, the French president took Israel to task with a renewal of his charge that it started the June war against the Arabs.

Saying peace could be brought intercession of the Big Four (U.S., Britain, France and Russia), he noted "We cannot see how any kind of an agreement can evolve as long as one of the greatest of the Big Four is not disengaged from the odious war which it is carrying on elsewhere..."

U.S. Explores Peace Road

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman met Communist Romanian leaders Monday to discuss the Vietnam war. Western diplomatic sources said Harriman might be carrying new peace feelers for Hanoi.

Harriman flew to Bucharest from Belgrade and talks with Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito. The American was met in Bucharest by Deputy Foreign Minister Vasile Sandru.

POSSIBLE AVENUES

Before leaving Belgrade, Harriman told newsmen he would discuss possible avenues to peace in Vietnam during his talks with Romanian leaders. But he declined to say if he carried any new peace offers for Romania to relay to Hanoi.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia denied Monday that Viet Cong guerrillas are using his nation as a sanctuary.

SIMPLE PRETEXT

In a broadcast monitored here, Sihanouk accused the United States of "seeking a simple pretext to terrorize the Cambodians and force them to align themselves with America." He said American reports of a jungle camp, apparently used by the Viet Cong, were part of Washington's alleged strategy to cow the Cambodians.

A magazine edited by Sihanouk, "Reallites Cambogiennes," accused "westerners" — by implication, members of the U.S. Special Forces — of participating in a Thai raid on Cambodian territory.

Viet Cong Quiet In Dak To Area

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist death toll in the battle of Dak To has been increased to 1,641 dead with discovery of 22 more North Vietnamese bodies by U.S. troops searching the South Vietnamese hills near the borders of Laos and Cambodia.

The U.S. command here reported the new figures Monday. The number of enemy wounded is unknown. U.S. forces lost 287 men killed and 1,000 others wounded in the three-week battle, bloodiest of the war.

TOWARDS CAMBODIA

U.S. commanders at Dak To in the central highlands expressed belief the North Vietnamese have had enough and are pulling out toward Cambodia to the southwest.

Dak To units reported no significant action in their central highlands sector Monday and there was little elsewhere in South Vietnam.

A cloud cover over much of North Vietnam limited U.S. air strikes Sunday to 88 missions, hitting at lines of communications, storage areas and weapons positions. All but two of the raids were in the southern panhandle. Results of Monday's raids were not disclosed.

Saigon headquarters reported the loss of two more American planes. One, a marine A-1H Intruder, went down Saturday.

Unity Endangered

OVER THE PAST SEVERAL DAYS Canadians have seen evidence of an increasing awareness of the political differences confronting the nation. The lines of argument and the direction of opinion have been clarified. We are escaping, at least, from the period of euphemism and exploratory phrases which were so misleading and confusing.

From the four-day meeting of the Estates General of French Canada in Montreal has come a startling program of resolutions, including such demands as the right of self-determination for the "French-Canadian nation"; exclusive powers for the "state of Quebec" over international relations, and such fields as transport, communication and immigration; unilingualism—that is to say, French only—for Quebec; jurisdiction over Quebec air space, and that of Labrador and the Arctic's Baffin Island.

Some delegates urged Quebec's annexation of New Brunswick.

Mr. Rene Levesque, who bolted the Liberal Party ranks on his "sovereign Quebec" hobbyhorse, declared the Estates General program would be studied as a basis of policy for his developing party.

Meanwhile, in Toronto, Premier John Robarts of Ontario was opening the Confederation of Tomorrow conference aimed at determining "the measure of our consensus and range of differences" and assessing of priorities.

One of the great issues, he said, is the place of French Canada in the Canadian society; and Canada must "accommodate and be enriched by . . . the two main streams of our heritage."

Premier Robarts stood for compromise and flexibility under the constitution. The Estates General resolutions indicated a stubborn and abrasive independence of attitude, more disruptive than co-operative.

In Paris, President Charles de Gaulle added his helpful bit of advice, after accusing the Canadian government of showing partiality in its treatment of Quebec. Two conditions must be met, he said, before Quebec is free. The constitution must be altered to permit co-operation between French- and English-speaking Canadians and there must be a solidarity of the French community on both sides of the Atlantic.

Back in Toronto, Mr. Levesque and another separatist, Mr. Gilles Giguere, MP, supported by a number of Quebec university students, failed to convince a seminar at York University that Ontario would soon have another sovereign nation for a neighbor. Most were skeptical. There was general agreement that Quebec had grounds for complaint, but the majority refused to believe no solution was possible.

Three provincial premiers, Mr. Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick, Mr. G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia, and Mr. Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island, discussing, among other things, the possibility of Maritime union, said in a joint statement: "One of the dominant problems of Confederation today is that within our political union there are glaring disparities in levels and standards of services and development among the ten provinces."

"In many areas of Canada Confederation has not provided Canadians with sufficient means to achieve economic and social freedom."

All of these various expressions support the view that the nation faces an increasingly critical period of adjustment. No one will deny the necessity.

But for the extremists who would dismember the country, destroy a structure laboriously built on the foundations of Confederation and imperil the future there could be second thoughts if the sober majority of Canadians takes a determined stand on a policy embracing fair dealing, understanding and, above all, equality in unity.

Fist Over Hand

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO France, reeling under the relentless onslaught by the German army, was all but destroyed militarily, economically and politically.

As its government verged on complete collapse, Britain held out the hand of friendship and hope by offering political union between the two nations—a magnanimous gesture which would not only have resulted in nationals of both countries enjoying a joint citizenship but presented France with the opportunity of continuing as one with Great Britain in the war against the Nazis.

The offer was not accepted and France surrendered to face the ignominy of being occupied by German troops and being governed by a Hitler puppet for four long years.

True, thousands of French soldiers escaped to form a Free French Army on British soil—an army which was nominally led by General de Gaulle but was trained, fed and equipped by the United Kingdom and its allies.

Today it is Britain's turn to reel—under a war of economic pressures. And it is interesting to note that France—under General de Gaulle—repays her debt to the gallant little island by offering not the open hand of a friend but the clenched fist of an adversary.

Never Sillier

AS IF PRIME MINISTER Harold Wilson's government is not having enough trouble at the moment, Tory MP John Smith has started a one-man campaign to have the British Houses of Parliament replaced by a modern, streamlined building specifically designed for conducting the practical business of the legislature.

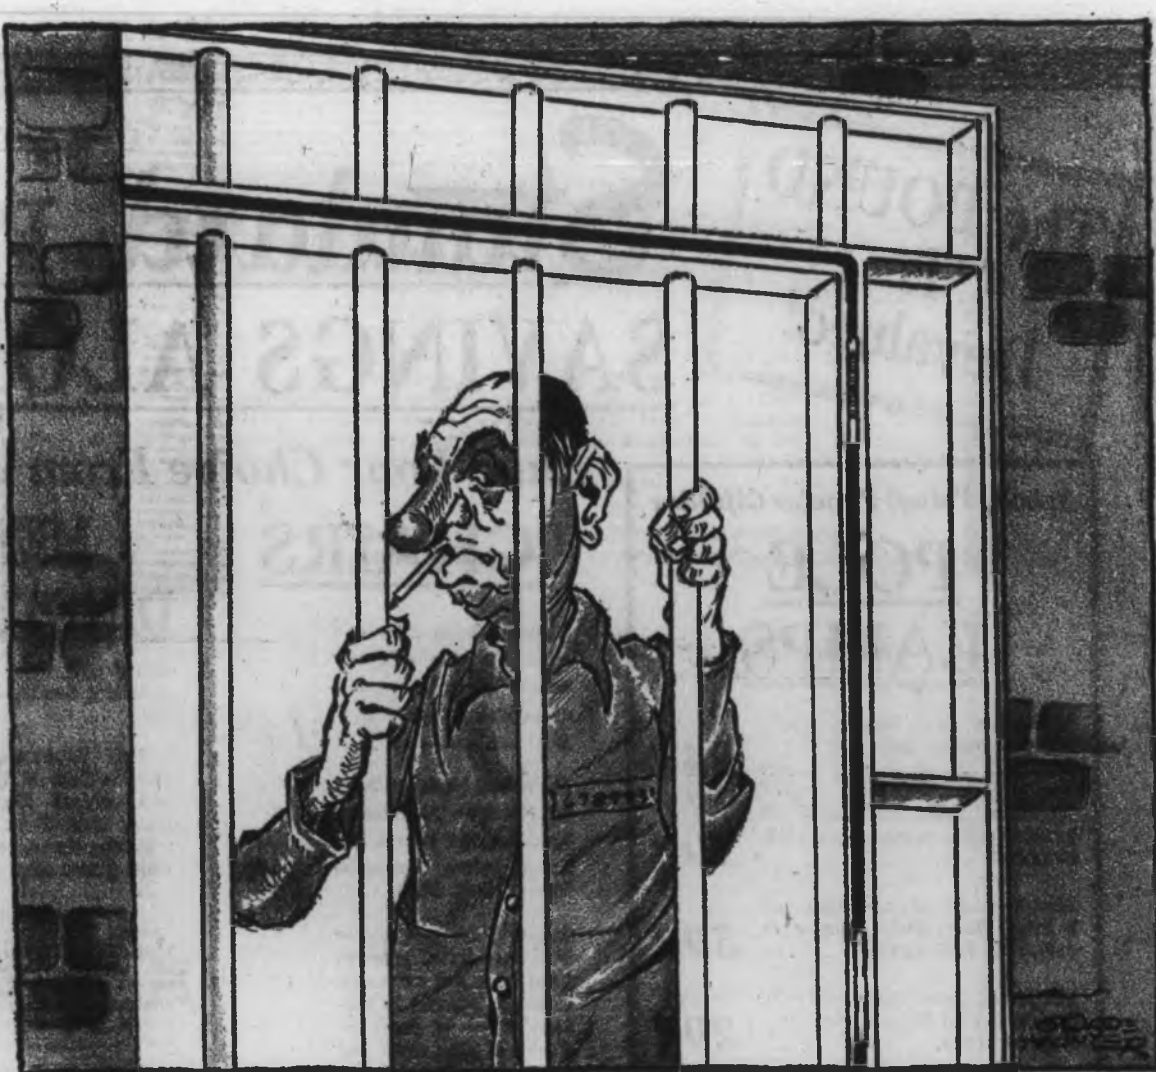

The present buildings he says are so utterly unsuitable for their purpose that they should be turned over to pageantry, state functions and government entertaining.

Apart from describing the present Houses as being "rather like a large boarding school which has unexpectedly found itself evacuated into an early Victorian club," Mr. Smith complains that as all the windows look into the courtyard and the chamber is lit from above, "the whole influence . . . is towards introspection."

What is really wanted, according to Mr. Smith, is a more extrovert building which could have windows out of which members could actually see the people they are ruling.

"The greenhouse effect in the present building builds up over the week," says Mr. Smith, "and the people are marginally sillier on Thursday than on Monday, when they've had a weekend of real life to get over it."

How fortunate we are in Canada that our members have avoided these and similar problems by following the simple expedient of absenting themselves from the House with great frequency and regularity, with at least one beneficial result being that no one could accuse them of being any sillier on Thursdays than they are on Mondays.

"Past! Now remember you guys . . . when we bust out of here it's okay to knock off the warden, but make sure you don't kill any guards!"

Merciless, Miss LaMarsh Pulled No Punches When She Met CBC Issue in Commons' Ring

THANK God for Judy LaMarsh!

Clear above the babble of the Commons is sounded.

And the House, Liberals, Conservatives, Socialists, Creditists, Independents, French and English alike—just about all parliamentary hands except for the New Democrats—applauded, hammering their desk-tops in enthusiastic endorsement of LaMarsh.

It could have been a turning point in Judy's often troubled relations with Parliament. For she long has been far too abrasive for the sensitivities of most of the Conservatives and even some of the Liberals.

When she has laced it to the Opposition with the sharp edge of her tongue, Prime Minister Pearson has been seen to cringe and sigh in the frustration of ever hoping to persuade her to cool it.

So the bewigged Judy never has been in much danger of being voted Parliament's pin-up girl.

And now, suddenly she was. The instant sweetheart.

For she had spoken up for Parliament in its long-troubled relations with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Blankly—was there ever any other way Judy has spoken?—she told the CBC, president Alphonse Oulmet, his board of directors and his producers, that not they, but Parliament is "boss."

It marked not only a turning point in her relations with Parliament, but Parliament's with the CBC.

For until now, down through all the "costly and enraging years," as Judy so aptly phrased it, very often it has seemed the CBC was master and Parliament its servant.

The heartfelt cry: "Thank God for Judy LaMarsh!" came from John Matheson, Liberal MP for Ontario's Leeds constituency.

Why made the House all but stand up and cheer was that John Matheson is no ordinary backbench MP, but rather somebody quite special as Prime Minister Pearson's parliamentary assistant, frequently designated official spokesman and his chief advisor in such Commons' crunches as came with the birth of the new Maple Leaf flag.

But Judy had done far more than tell CBC who is "boss."

And she had done only that it would have been a great deal more than any other federal cabinet minister—Liberal or Conservative—ever had done before.

Other cabinet ministers "responsible" to Parliament for the CBC, as it has been so ludicrously phrased, have done little more than serve as defenders and apologists for the publicly-supported broadcasters all through the years.

But now Judy had gone on to tell the CBC what a wildly extravagant disaster it has been, informing its management that "rotten" was the word for it, and advising rebellious producers that they aren't to be allowed any longer to use the public's tax money and the public's networks to destroy the nation.

She put it so sweetly, too: "It is not Parliament's responsibility or intention to tax Canadians to finance the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to break up their country."

The CBC, which never assigns one or two or even three high-paid hands to a job when it more uselessly can employ a dozen, a score or even several hundred, must have got the message—and first-hand.

For its mandarins—it has 11 vice-presidents—packed the official gallery of the Commons and the house broadcasting committee, busily taking notes, emitting little sounds of disapproval and generally making

It plain they considered the MPs and Judy were beyond hope of reason.

This time, through the five swinging days of what even LaMarsh, amazed, described as "free, wide-swinging debate," the MPs were unanimous—all but the New Democrats—in their condemnation of the CBC as an agent of destruction of all that is decent in Canadian life and of Canada itself.

It was so savage, this "condemnation," as she called it, it even stunned her—and she doesn't stun easily.

As they say, "Thank God for Judy LaMarsh."

De Gaulle Stirs Another Tempest With 'Plot' to Stifle Criticism

By THOMAS NUZUM from Paris

That would not video nearly $130 million a year.

Theoretically this would soak up half the money budgeted for advertising, and bankrupt many publications.

France's opposition politicians blame their repeated defeats by de Gaulle on his TV monopoly. The government gives opposition politicians equal time on video, but only during the official campaigns. These only run two weeks preceding elections. Government officials hog the limelight the rest of the year.

Press and politicians are dead set against an administration proposal to allow commercial advertising on the country's two television networks, both owned by the government.

By siphoning off publicity from newspapers, commercial television would kill off nine of the 12 dailies in Paris, charged the National Press Federation. It was a plot to stifle criticism, charged the communist daily l'Humanite. So did the conservative paper l'Aurore in agreement with l'Humanite for the first time.

Even Albin Chalandon, former secretary-general of de Gaulle's political party, complained. This threatened freedom of information, he said, unless the government gave up control of video.

France has 15,000 dailies, weeklies and other periodicals competing for $300 million a year in advertising revenue. Some eke out their precarious existence with contributions from political parties or lobbies.

The two TV networks would each sell only 10 minutes a day in advertising time at a key evening hour. But since this new advertising will be seen by half the population, it would sell for $20,000 a minute on each channel.

Archimedes' Tomb

WORKMEN building a motel may have unearthed the tomb of Archimedes, sought for 2,000 years, in his native Syracuse. The former Greek colony is now the boom city of the south of Italy.

Professor Salvatore Clancio, president of the Sicilian Archaeological Centre, believes that he has identified it beyond question. Fellow savants, at first sceptical, are coming around to his view.

Archimedes shared the fate of Syracuse when it fell to the Romans in 212 B.C. As a military adviser to King Hiero II, his ingenious defences had done much to prolong the siege. It was hardly over when he returned to his studies; and while he was tracing a geometrical problem on the sands, a Roman soldier cut him down.

Marcellus, the Roman general who had done much to spare Syracuse, was grief-stricken. Archimedes was given solemn burial. In 75 B.C. the historian, Cicero, found his tomb, forgotten amid weeds and briars, near the Acradina gate of Syracuse. Then it was lost again.

Not long ago two gold sealings were brought to Professor Clancio for appraisal. One bore a large ruby engraved with a Greek head; the other a cornelian with two pigeons. They had been found with other objects in a lead funeral urn which had been unearthed in the Neapole quarter, a part of the city remodelled by King Hiero.

Builders had uncovered a tomb consisting of large stone blocks set in a rectangle of 80 square metres. Clearly outlined on one of the blocks is a circle, which in Professor Clancio's opinion, marks the place from which a small upright column is missing.

Cicero describes the monument in the Tusculanae: "I remembered some verses which I had heard were inscribed on Archimedes' tomb: the sepulchre was indicated by a sphere and a cylinder" (relations between which were regarded by Archimedes as his most valuable discovery).

"Near the Gate of Acradina, where there are many tombs," Cicero goes on, "I perceived a small column that rose just above the briars, on which was inscribed the figure of a sphere inside a cylinder. At once I said to the worthy citizens with me that I had found what I sought."

I sent in men with sickles to open a path to the base of the column. The verses were there, partly corroded."

Workers remember seeing and throwing away, among tons of earth and rubble, part of what might be the missing column. Professor Clancio does not despair of finding what he calls "the proof of the proof" that the tomb was built for Archimedes, and the search continues.

Washington Calling

Overseer from Texas Hard on His Staff

By MARQUIS CHILDS

TRYING to persuade a long-time friend to take a demanding job in his administration, the president is reported to have said, "You won't have to work more than 12 hours a day—and, look at me, I work 18 hours a day."

It happened that the friend had had a serious heart attack from which he had been a considerable time convalescing. In characteristic fashion Johnson brushed this aside, insisting that his own heart attack in 1955 had been much worse and he was now sound as a dollar even though he worked harder than he ever had in his life. The friend did not take the job.

This incident points up two harsh commentaries at the start of the fifth year of the Johnson presidency. One is the fatigue factor. It is not four years but nearly seven years that the present administration has held office. As vice-president, Johnson drove himself with the same relentless energy if only because of the frustration of the No. 2 spot for a man of such indomitable pride and ambition.

The two key members of the cabinet, defence and state, have gone through these same cruel seven years. The pace set by Dean Rusk and Robert S. McNamara is positively inhuman. There is a six- and often a seven-day week of 12 to 13 hours a day with extracurricular duties after office hours.

Each man has travelled hundreds of thousands of miles in this country and abroad, roasting across distant horizons in military jets, losing sleep and changing a dozen time zones as though the human frame were constructed of some new and completely fatigue-resistant metal.

While the president seems to consider any suggestion that members of his team are tired a form of disloyalty, such a pace cannot help but take a toll. Privately Rusk has admitted his exhaustion from time to time. Even in a face so disciplined and impassive it shows as he orbits from continent to continent.

The extraordinary brain of the imperturbable McNamara continues to function with computer-like precision. Yet the sea of troubles breaking around him has occasionally shattered his calculated cool. His speech in San Francisco announcing the start of a thin-line antiballistic missile system and inveighing against the all-out ABM showed an uneasy illogicalness foreign to the McNamara performance.

Whether it is the fatigue factor or the dominance of the Vietnam war, new ideas, new approaches have been few and far between. The wheel spins furiously but in the same old tracks. This is conspicuously true in foreign policy, with the complaints increasing in volume about the mountain of the state department and the infrequent mice it gives birth to.

The second unhappy characteristic marking the Johnson administration at this point is the difficulty of recruiting first-rate men to fill the difficult top jobs. This has often been true with a president facing an election with the outcome questionable in the light of his declining popularity. It is complicated today by Johnson's demanding work habits. His expectation that the man will be on the job whenever he happens to call him, whether it is 7 a.m. or midnight.

Increasingly, the president has fallen back on career appointees who cannot say no or former associates bound to the Johnson chariot wheels. Deputies are present to take as a kind of treason. Bill D. Moyers' determination to leave in order to better his economic position brought down the president's indignation and Moyers' picture is turned to the wall. In his three years in the White House he exercised a moderating and, on the whole, sensible influence.

The only really first-rate figure coming into the administration recently was W. Gardner, who was named secretary of health, education and welfare in August, 1965. Gardner was persuaded to leave the quiet of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching to take over the vast sprawl of HEW. If he regrets his decision he gives no sign of it, his urbane and scholarly manner concealing whatever personal feelings he may have about his difficult assignment.

Even at the under secretary and assistant secretary levels there are many who continue to labor at the archaic pace of administration as they have for the past seven years. Familiar figures from time to time fall into new slots. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach went from attorney general to be under secretary of state where his role seems slightly obscure.

With the Vietnam war still on and a strenuous campaign ahead the president will be even more reluctant to accept resignations from any of the familiars. And their loyalty is engaged even though they feel at times that they have more than paid their debt to public service. A year from now, no matter what the outcome of the election, the rush for the exit is likely to be a stampede.

Pearl Harbor Encore

By STUART GRIFFIN from Tokyo

THE day of infamy," as Franklin D. Roosevelt named the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor which first brought the two Pacific nations into conflict, is to be re-enacted as a massive venture in Japanese-American co-operation.

And not surprisingly, this film version of Pearl Harbor will cost far more than the original attack itself.

The film is tentatively called TORA, TORA after the Japanese code name for the raid carried out on December 7, 1941, by the task force of carriers. The combatants this time will be Twentieth Century Fox in Hollywood and Kurosawa Productions in Japan.

Kurosawa, producer-director of Rashomon, The Seven Samurai, and a number of other internationally known features, will be writing the Pearl Harbor script with two other Japanese writers. This version will then be incorporated into an American treatment written in Hollywood. Shooting should start early next year—after both the Japanese and the U.S. governments have approved the integrated script.

Kurosawa spent 100 days on the script—more than for any other picture he has made—cloistered away from his fellow writers in what he jokingly calls "Atami Prison," the hot-springs spa south of Yokohama.

His script is said secret, but one feature has leaked out. It is that Kurosawa has made a hero of the man the Americans hated most after Pearl Harbor, Fleet Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, the planner of the attack who was later Supreme Commander of the Imperial Japanese Navy. Yamamoto was ambushed and killed in the South Pacific in 1943.

It appears that Kurosawa's treatment will show both the intent of the raid and the event itself, switching from the rehearsal of the Japanese carried out in the Kurile Islands to the swoop itself across Diamond Head.

"I face up to the fact of war," says Kurosawa, "telling the whole, true story—hiding nothing—the story from all sides."

The film will be co-directed, with Kurosawa's team working in Japan in Japanese and another working in America under a director who has yet to be named. The producer is Elmo Williams, who will bear all the logistical headaches of planning Pearl Harbor all over again.

An amazing number of vintage but serviceable aircraft will be on hand for the second attack, both Japanese and American planes, but all more than 20 years old.

The last word ought to go to Kurosawa, who has said that he will avoid the cheap and the melodramatic in his treatment. He feels the story tells itself—the one for which neither side Japanese nor American—need apologize.

At least 491 persons died in a "flash fire" at the Regency Club, a night club 25 years ago tonight—in 1942. Nightclub singer Bill Payne saved 10 patrons by leading them into a huge basement ice box.

De Gaulle Mischief-Maker

OF, from London —

The Times accuses General de Gaulle of mischief-making in his call Monday for a state of sovereignty for Quebec province.

In an editorial headed "More Mischief in Canada," the newspaper says the French president now has confessed he went to Canada last summer to disrupt confederation. Canadian separatists would be joyful. "Canada, like Carthage, is to be destroyed," the newspaper says, "and it is hinted that the new French nation in North America will not be confined to Quebec province. No more intoxicating manifesto could be issued to the secessionists—a specific aim and an almost indefinitely extensible claim."

The Times notes with approval that Prime Minister Pearson, in a speech here Monday, had replied in advance to the de Gaulle views about Quebec's status by saying Canada's problems would not be solved by outside intervention.

"This is the wish of the great majority of Canadians, but the general has intervened to make a difficult problem considerably more difficult. The general's speech will intensify suspicion about his other activities in Canada."

The Times added: "The more mischievous effect will be to make it harder to keep English Canada restrained. For Pearson to manoeuvre, it is essential that the provincial anti-French backlash should be contained. But most Canadians will expect their government to react vigorously and decisively."

"The problem is to avoid playing the general's game. The real answer, in Canada, lies in the interprovincial conference including Quebec which opened yesterday to discuss in detail Canada's future structure. The theme is how two nations, through provincial networks, can live together and develop a distinct North American entity and a style from the blending and cross-fertilization of two cultures."

From Washington

A return to a gold monetary standard as suggested Monday by French President de Gaulle is considered impractical, if not impossible, by U.S. officials. Such a move, it is felt in some quarters, could lead to a contraction in world trade, increased unemployment and sharp swings in domestic economic activity.

Some officials express doubt that even de Gaulle really would welcome a return to a strict gold standard where currencies can be exchanged freely for gold.

This could create a run on French gold, now the second largest stockpile in the free world at $5,200,000,000. The U.S. stockpile is about $13,000,000,000.

At the present price of $35 an ounce, the free world's supply of gold—listed by the International Monetary Fund at roughly $45,000,000,000 in official government holdings—would be far from sufficient to finance world trade.

Money reserves of the more than 100 nations which belong to the IMF now total $71,000,000,000 and arrangements have been made to increase the supply when it is needed to finance more trade.

U.S. officials noted that France concurred in that arrangement although the new money, if it is created, would be linked in no way with gold.

At his Paris press conference, de Gaulle said the 14.3-per-cent devaluation of the British pound may lead back to the gold standard.

The U.S. treasury department declined to comment officially on de Gaulle's remarks.

But U.S. officials to the man oppose any return to the gold standard. In some quarters it is thought de Gaulle's remarks may have been at least partly political since they were coupled with this statement:

"There is an American takeover of our business but this doesn't come as much from the structural superiority of the United States as it does from exportation of inflated dollars."

A return to the gold standard could conceivably cut U.S. investments abroad. But officials said a strict gold standard would mean also that all countries must be willing to buy and sell gold at a fixed price and the United States now is the only nation doing so—at $35 an ounce.

As a country's gold supply dwindled, the amount of its currency also would theoretically dwindle or its value would be cut.

Since 1934 when the United States changed to a modified gold standard, individual Americans have been barred from hoarding gold. Only foreign central banks can exchange their dollars for U.S. gold.

This is called the gold exchange standard and the U.S. policy of buying and selling at $35 an ounce was confirmed by President Johnson only moments after the British devaluation Nov. 18.

The gold bullion standard is also a part of U.S. policy and now provides that each dollar bill is backed by 25 cents in gold.

Some officials view this as unnecessary and a move now is afoot to remove this gold cover.

The United States, The Netherlands, Belgium and Switzerland are the only major countries with some type of gold backing for their domestic currency.

The gold exchange standard has given the dollar unparalleled prestige abroad and many countries hold dollars as reserves.

Britain To Exit —Via Entrance

AP, from London

Britain surrenders power this week to 1,000,000 South Arabians facing a bleak and uncertain future on a rocky southwestern tip of Asia.

The likely leader of the new desert state, covering 112,000 square miles, is Kahtan el Shaabi, 45, founder of the National Liberation Front. The NLF has emerged victorious from a trial of strength against local rivals.

The hauling down of the Union Jack in Aden will provide an ironic display, for that natural harbor and ancient market place with origins stretching back to pre-Christian times was annexed 128 years ago as Britain's first foothold in the Arabian quarter of the Ottoman Empire.

Among Britons there is a deep conflict over the wisdom of the decision to walk out of a territory that dominates the eastern approaches to the Red Sea where Asia and Africa meet.

The Labor government compares it with the 1948 retreat which, they argue, averted a major war and insured that India would remain democratic.

The Conservative opposition compares it with Belgium's sudden withdrawal from the Congo that left a trail of tragedy and chaos.

The cost of the British military presence in the area has run about $70,000,000 yearly.

South Africa Predicts Rise in Price of Gold

By PETER SCHIEMER from Johannesburg

South African mining experts and government economists in Pretoria are increasingly confident that an increase in the price of gold can be expected within the next six months as a result of Britain's devaluation of sterling.

Gold shares on the Johannesburg stock exchange are enjoying a popularity they have not experienced for months, and the credit squeeze and the government's efforts to curb inflation.

"A rise in the gold price—either real or as a result of devaluation of the dollar—is inevitable now. Either way the gold mines, particularly the marginal ones, will benefit," a leading Pretoria economist said.

Although a few sources feel South Africa will be forced to devalue within the next year, most observers are convinced that the government will not devalue before there is a gold price increase.

Wage Parity Inflation Spur?

By MARVIN D. LIPTON

Under an agreement between labor and management at Chrysler Corporation in the United States, Canadian auto workers at Chrysler Canada Ltd. will by 1970 get dollar wages equivalent to their American counterparts.

Although auto unionists hailed their breakthrough with loud applause, others dubbed the gain "a dangerous precedent" and "the illusion of wage parity."

During the same week the new car pact was won, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp told a surprised House of Commons he plans new taxes to curb runaway prices and wages in Canada.

Only a few weeks earlier, George Hees demanded the government divulge its plans to stem "an unbelievable acceleration" of two per cent in the cost of living since July.

Critics lost little time linking the subjects of these unrelated news events and sternly warned the terms of the car contract could only exacerbate Canada's number one problem, inflation.

Once wage parity is won in the auto industry, it is argued, it will be only a matter of time until other unions also demand equal pay. But, because output per worker in U.S. plants is 22 per cent higher than output per worker in Canada, general parity is hopeless.

If it is pursued in the face of this productivity gap, more Canadian dollars will chase too few goods and services in Canada, and their prices will skyrocket to ration the supply to the demand.

CURRENT EVENTS

What disturbed opponents even more was the fact that they believed wage parity was promoted by Americans for their own benefits. Higher Canadian wages mean higher costs here which would discourage U.S. automakers from expanding their operations in Canada.

THE PICK OF Punch

"I say bomb them into submission! It's the only language I understand."

If you hate shoddy workmanship, you'll love the Mercedes-Benz 250S.

Too many $6,000-plus cars give you tomorrow's styling—and yesterday's engineering.

The Mercedes-Benz 250S is built to be driven, not just admired.

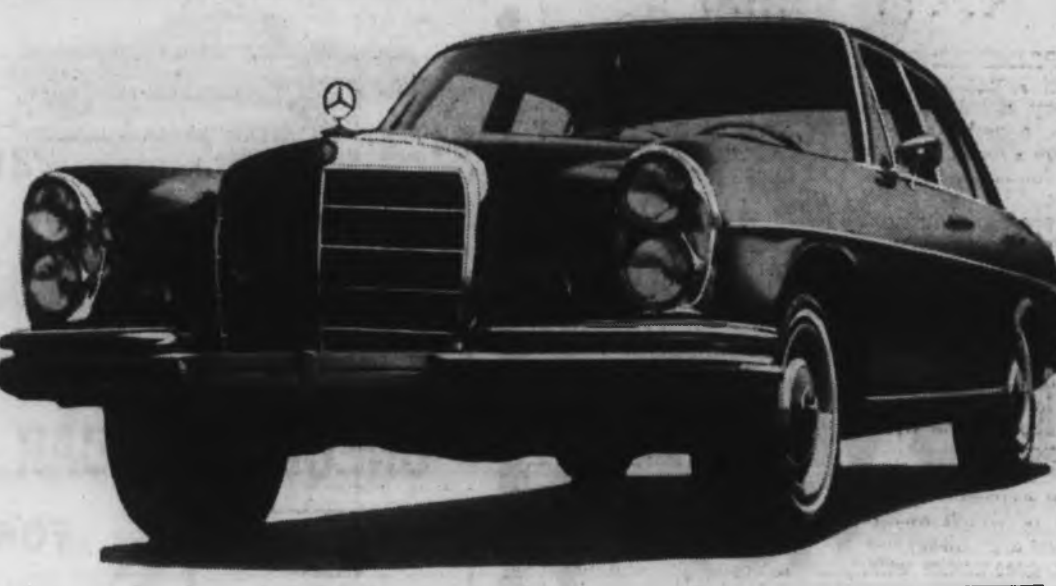

It bristles with technical advances like fully independent suspension and 4-wheel disc brakes.

In place of gewgaws, you get engineering benefits: a rugged "unit" body, welded at 10,000 points to stifle rattles and armored with 45 pound of rust-proofing. An automatic load-leveler that prevents the car's stern from sagging when heavy loads are added to the trunk. And a virtually un-burstable 6-cylinder, single over-head-camshaft engine that delivers 20 miles per gallon in normal driving.

You and four passengers ride comfortably inside the 250S. Yet its design is so sane that the car measures a full two feet shorter than its major $6,000-plus rivals—a boon in city traffic and tight parking.

Come in and test-drive the Mercedes-Benz 250S sedan soon. It's a tribute to your good sense—not just your ego.

Nasser Quotes Diluted

CAIRO (AP) — Egyptian officials attempted Sunday to dilute the tone of a speech by President Gamal Abdel Nasser in which he threatened to fight Israel again if lost Arab territories were not returned.

Nasser made the speech Thursday, and Israelis as well as others construed it as a belligerent one that could be harmful to the United Nations Security Council resolution on Middle East peace.

Will Fight

A government spokesman, Mohamed Hassan el Zayyat, called a press conference Sunday to say that some parts of the speech were read out of context and that in other parts there was faulty translation by the Egyptian government's own translation service.

The spokesman said Egypt will give "most serious consideration" to terms of the Security Council resolution and will co-operate as far as possible with efforts of UN representative Gunnar Jarring.

On Canal

Nasser said Thursday Egypt will fight if the UN fails to get territory lost in the June war returned.

Zayyat challenged the conclusion that Nasser virtually had rejected UN intervention.

"What the president meant is that the UN resolution by itself is not enough to settle the Middle East crisis. It is all right, but it needs something more."

Not Correct

The spokesman explained Nasser's belligerent statements as an effort to put Egypt into a better bargaining position in the forthcoming discussions with Jarring.

The spokesman denied that Nasser had said Israeli ships never could use the Suez Canal. He said Nasser instead had linked canal transit with a solution of the Palestinian refugee problem, saying Israel never could use the canal until the refugee question was solved.

Kosygin Heated Hot Line

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The special teletype "hot line" linking Moscow and Washington was used 20 times during the Arab-Israeli war in June, according to a White House aide.

Walt Rostow, President Johnson's national security adviser, said Soviet Premier Kosygin activated the hot line at 7:47 a.m. June 5, a few hours after war broke out.

Johnson's reply was sent an hour later, but Rostow didn't say what was in either message. A third message was sent by Johnson later in the week, informing Kosygin of the Israeli attack on the U.S. navy ship Liberty.

Details of the 17 other messages were not given.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada explained in the UN General Assembly Monday it will abstain from voting on a resolution to remove Nationalist China from the UN and seat Communist China in its place because it does not "point to a rational solution to the problem" of the so-called two Chinas question.

The resolution, described by a Canadian source as an "Albanian-type resolution," was put forward by Cambodia and co-sponsors.

It and two other resolutions will be voted on by the 122-member assembly today.

Canada, explaining Monday how and why it will vote on the three resolutions, said it will vote in favor of U.S.- and Italian-inspired resolutions.

U.S. PLAN

The U.S. draft calls on the assembly to reaffirm that a two-thirds majority is necessary to change China's UN representation.

The Italian resolution—almost identical to one Canada presented as long as 18 years ago—would have a committee study the whole question of Chinese representation.

Permanent Canadian representative George Ignatieff explained that the Cambodian resolution is no more satisfactory to Canada than "the only other option... to ignore the existence" of Communist China.

LIKE LAST YEAR

Ignatieff reiterated External Affairs Minister Martin's suggestion to the assembly last year that "neither of these options took into account the fundamental changes which have occurred in China since the United Nations was established."

The assembly would be following in "sterile directions" if it pursued the alternatives of replacing the Nationalist Chinese government with the Peking government, or of ignoring the existence of mainland China's government.

INTERIM SOLUTION

"The essence of the Canadian position," explained Ignatieff, is that both Chinese governments "should be seated here as an interim solution pending the settlement of the jurisdictional dispute between them."

Ignatieff specifically emphasized that an "interim" arrangement "is not, as some have called it, a two-Chinas policy."

Canada also felt that, irrespective of the upheaval on the Chinese mainland in the last year, Communist China should eventually, and necessarily, be represented in the UN.

ONLY PART

Because the Cambodian resolution would accomplish only part of the Canadian objective, Canada would abstain as it had done in last year's similar vote.

Previous to last year, Canada had voted against seating mainland China.

The Italian resolution calls for a committee to draw up recommendations "for an equitable and practical solution to the question" of Chinese representation. The solution should take into account "the existing situation and the political realities of the area."

SAME PATTERN

The Associated Press reported diplomats were predicting the voting today will follow the pattern of previous years, with the assembly supporting the U.S. resolution, co-sponsored by 13 other Western nations. They predicted failure of the Cambodian resolution.

The resolution last year similar to the one sponsored this year by Italy and four co-sponsoring countries failed.

African nations remained split as the debate neared its end. Arab delegations, including Syria and Egypt, backed the proposal to seat Peking.

Southern Yemen Formed

ADEN (AP) — A new nation was born Sunday, 96 hours early, when the British colony of Aden was proclaimed the Southern Yemen People's Republic by Arabs who took command of the South Arabian army from the British last week. The army has 5,000 men while the 115,000-square-mile country has a population of 1,000,000. Army leader is Col. Mohammed Ahmed al Anlaqi, 47.

Most Valuable Gold Coin Found Long After Theft

MIAMI (UPI) — A $16 gold piece once owned by George Washington and now believed the world's most valuable coin has been recovered from the loot of a $1,000,000 theft, an insurance adjuster said Monday.

Richard Andrews, an adjuster who specializes in recovering stolen goods, said the Brasher Doubloon, worth between $100,000 and $150,000, was recovered in South Florida during the weekend.

The coin was one of about 4,000 stolen from the Sterling Memorial Library at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., on May 29, 1965. Until recovery of the famed doubloon, only a small part of the $981,560 loot had been found.

Andrews would not say how or from whom the coin was recovered. But he said, "we have hopes of making further recoveries in this robbery."

The coin, which Andrews displayed to newsmen at a conference, was gold and obviously old. It had irregular edges in the style of coins minted by goldsmiths before the national mint was established.

Andrews said the coin was named the Brasher Doubloon after the goldsmith who made it, Ephraim Brasher. He said Brasher was a neighbor of George Washington in New York, and gave Washington the coin in 1787.

The coin later was given to Yale by an alumnus, Andrews said. He said, however, that he was unfamiliar with the history of the gold piece from the time Washington had it until its arrival at the library.

The FBI has recovered only 72 of the coins stolen in the Yale robbery. Sixty-eight of those were found in the Chicago coin shop of John W. Risen in September, 1966. Risen was charged in connection with the theft.

Andrews said that the person who let the Brasher Doubloon go did so because of "a lot of pressure."

"This was not a buy-back," he said. "We didn't pay for this coin. We will have expenses, of course, but we didn't buy this back."

Andrews did indicate, however, that the "pressure" upon the holder of the coin was his own knowledge of where the coin was. When asked if he knew the person who returned the coin, Andrews replied: "What I can say is it wasn't Father Fogarty I dealt with. I can tell you that."

A year and one-half ago, Andrews succeeded in recovering about $600,000 worth of jade taken from the Norton Gallery at Palm Beach, Fla. He said he worked for four months in efforts to recover the Brasher Doubloon.

Andrews said the name of the person he dealt with in the recovery would not be made known to the public, but it would be disclosed to the FBI. Coin experts said after the Yale robbery that it would be impossible to sell any of the coins in the United States because all those stolen were too well known. The thieves apparently took only British and American coins at the library and ignored a collection of Greek and Roman coins.

Authorities believe the thieves entered the library by having one of their number hide inside the building until after it closed. At that time, a night watchman in the building was overpowered and handcuffed and the building alarm failed to go off.

Rusk Aide Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant State Secretary Charles F. Frankel said Monday night he has submitted his resignation to President Johnson and plans to return to academic life at Columbia University in New York.

The 50-year-old philosopher and author has headed the state department's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs for two years and three months.

Frankel declined to comment on reports he is stepping out as a result of differences with President Johnson and State Secretary Dean Rusk on U.S. policy in Vietnam.

"There are a number of reasons for my decision," he said. "It would not serve a good purpose to discuss them."

"I am leaving with great regret and with feelings of great respect for my colleagues and a sense of personal loyalty to them," Frankel said.

A few minutes after Frankel made this statement, the White House announced that the resignation had been accepted. It is effective Dec. 31, a spokesman for the president said.

Frankel's comment to reporters came shortly after the Columbia Broadcasting system reported he is resigning in protest against Johnson's policies.

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — Stokely Carmichael arrived in this Swedish university town Monday night from Tanzania and said he would return to the United States shortly, adding: "Soon I am going back to hell."

The black power advocate told reporters: "They are going to arrest me as soon as I return to the United States."

Carmichael's passport has been revoked by the U.S. State Department because he visited Cuba in July without authorization from the department. He has also visited North Vietnam and several African countries on his world tour.

Carmichael is in Sweden at the invitation of an Uppsala student organization and is to speak to the students today. He said he will visit Norway before returning to the United States.

Presidential Poll

Kennedy Given Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Kennedy leads President Johnson by 52 to 32 per cent, his widest margin yet, as the voters' choice for the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination, pollster Louis Harris said Monday.

Kennedy's latest gain since October was among women and persons 35 years of age or younger, according to results of a Harris public opinion survey published in the Washington Post.

FIRST TIME

The November sampling by Harris showed that for the first time, a majority of voters favored Kennedy over Johnson as the Democratic candidate next year, with 16 per cent undecided.

Harris said it was of major significance, though, that half those questioned believed Kennedy was wrong to urge a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

"This would indicate that President Johnson may not be as vulnerable within his own party on the war issue as some of his critics contend," Harris said.

Fewer persons than in June thought Kennedy was "too ambitious to be president"—down from 40 to 35 per cent — or "too arrogant and ruthless"—down to 37 per cent from 40 per cent.

Five per cent more persons (54 per cent) thought the senator "has many of the same outstanding qualities as President Kennedy" than in June.

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers union, with new Ford and Chrysler contracts wrapped up, moved on to General Motors—biggest of the U.S. auto-makers—Monday with indications that automation and uses of computers would be major problems.

UAW officials distributed a release in which they accused GM of trying to remove some auto jobs from UAW category by putting them into computerized fields with white-collar, non-union workers.

BATTLE LINE
Setting the battle line for some anticipated hard-nosed bargaining, the UAW told GM: "The union never has complained of automation. In fact, it has staunchly defended automation, often in spite of membership disbelief that automation is good for the economy and the total community."

"The union cannot continue to defend it if it is coupled with continuous displacement and erosion of the union with the new method arbitrarily assigned to salary."

OPTIMISTIC
Louis G. Seaton, GM vice-president-labor relations, had told reporters earlier Monday as he emerged from a preliminary meeting with the UAW that he was optimistic.

Seaton said: "GM is well aware of the economic dimensions of the Ford and Chrysler settlements and is prepared to bargain within the dimensions of those agreements."

GM's spokesman added that with "hard work and a realistic attitude by both parties these negotiations can reach a successful conclusion."

INTO NEW YEAR
Seaton said he expected it would take until early next year to resolve all local issues at GM's plants. Currently, some 18,000 such unresolved issues remain from an original agenda of 31,000, he reported.

UAW Vice-President Leonard Woodcock headed the union bargaining team in the absence of UAW President Walter P. Reuther who was sleeping after a marathon bargaining session at Chrysler which wound up at 3 a.m. Monday with a national contract for 8,000 Chrysler office and engineering workers.

The three-year Chrysler pact called for salary increases of $35 to $87 a month. The 18 salary classes now range from $82.20 to $262 a week.

It followed the general pattern laid down by the contracts covering production workers at Chrysler and Ford.

Besides covering U.S., the Chrysler pact provides Canadian workers with the same wages as their American counterparts by 1971.

Bennett Reluctance 'Incredible'

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Premier Bennett's decision not to intervene in the southern Interior woodworkers' strike was described here Monday as incredible.

Deputy Mayor Jack Chilton said the premier apparently does not understand the intent of the requests from Kamloops city council and five Kootenay municipalities that Mr. Bennett use his "good offices" to end the dispute which has lasted almost eight weeks.

Premier Bennett said last week he never intervenes in labor disputes but that the government-appointed industrial inquiry commissioner, Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe, had recommended settlement terms.

"There's no reason why the premier cannot intercede," said the deputy mayor.

"The government is a responsible body and economies of the areas are being adversely affected by the strike."

Ald. Chilton declared the government has a responsibility to use every means to get the parties together at the negotiating table and Mr. Bennett is being irresponsible in ignoring a critical situation.

"I would sincerely hope the premier will reconsider our requests and do everything possible to bring an end to the dispute," he added.

About 4,400 members of the International Woodworkers of America have been on strike in the southern Interior since Oct. 4. They are asking parity with coast IWA members who now get 50 cents an hour more than the Interior base rate of $2.26 an hour.

Munroe recommended a 44-cent boost over two years and northern Interior IWA members settled recently for the Munroe formula plus whatever increase coast IWA members win in 1969.

Giveaways Meeting Suggested

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for Imperial Oil Ltd. said Monday the company is prepared to meet the British Columbia Automotive Retailers' Association for talks on ending service station give-away gimmicks.

"We would be happy at any time to talk in general terms with the ARA," the spokesman said. "But any decision which we might reach would be the result of discussions with our own Imperial dealers."

There are about 550 Imperial Oil stations throughout the province.

Earlier, Lloyd Kinneard, secretary of the ARA, which represents about 1,500 service station operators in B.C., said the association has condemned the giveaways because the operators have to pay part of the costs although the promotions are sponsored by the oil companies.

DOMTAR OUTS DIVIDEND

Domtar, one of Canada's biggest firms in the construction, pulp and chemical industries, cut its common dividend for the quarter ended Feb. 1, 1968, from the usual 25 cents to 15 cents.

When the announcement was made Monday, the company did not comment on the reason or whether this was to be a new dividend policy.

Domtar, however, has suffered from loss of net profits during the past nine months and there has been doubt in market circles for some time as to whether it would continue to pay at the rate of $1 a year on its common shares.

PYRAMID TO MEET

The weekend announcement that the department of inland revenue had withdrawn its $16,000,000 capital gains tax claim against Pyramid Mining Co. Ltd. brought a boom in the company's shares in Toronto and Vancouver trading Monday.

The stock, which had been selling around $3.20 last week, rose quickly to $4.10 and was about $3.50 at the close. Pyramid directors intend calling an early meeting to decide what is to be done with the money now released.

Pyramid sold its Great Slave Lake property to Pine Point Mines two years ago, and it was on the basis of this sale that the revenue department made its tax claim now repudiated.

It claims that, in addition to having 20 per cent of the papermaking capacity of Canada, a B.C. felt industry could participate in the $6,045,000 felt export market.

NEW MARKETS

Reduced tariffs under the Kennedy round could open new markets in the U.S. and Pacific rim countries.

The government department urges any company interested to make a detailed study to determine the optimum size of the plant, the types of felt offering the best opportunities and the most economic source of raw materials.

It advises some form of joint participation with one of the felt manufacturing companies of Canada or the U.S.

Canada Looks West

SEATTLE, Wash. (CP)—Japan will soon oust the United Kingdom as Canada's most important trading partner, a University of Victoria geographer said here Saturday.

Dr. Bryan Farrell, addressing a national convention of social studies teachers, said Japan will move into second place behind the United States by 1975.

Because of Canada's expanding role in the Pacific, British Columbia's universities are increasing their attention to the other countries on the Pacific rim, he said.

Farrell was one of 15 B.C. teachers who headed discussion sessions on Canada and the Pacific World at the convention.

New Democrats Hesitate To Contest Municipalities

VANCOUVER (CP) — A threatened invasion of B.C. municipal politics by the New Democratic Party failed to materialize Monday when nominations closed for province-wide elections Dec. 9.

Clive Lytle, the NDP's provincial secretary, said the party doesn't plan to run a single candidate for municipal office, though a number of well-known New Democrats are running as independents.

PLAN APPROVED

At its annual convention in June, the NDP approved a plan that allows provincial constituency organizations to run candidates municipally under New Democratic colors.

Lytle said all candidates have to be approved by the provincial executive — but not a single application for candidacy approval had been received prior to the close of nominations.

SECREDS ALARMED

The NDP interest in municipal politics so alarmed the Social Credit party that it spent several hours debating the issue at the B.C. Social Credit League's annual convention there several weeks ago.

Social Credit members, however, decided to stay out of the field by a narrow vote which followed a stiff convention floor battle.

LACK OF FUNDS

Lytle said his party's failure to enter municipal politics this year is due to a lack of funds and the fact that Vancouver, where much of the interest originated, won't elect a new city council until next year.

"It could be that the provincial party will be actively promoting this next year and I would not be surprised if NDP candidates enter a number of elections across the province," the provincial secretary said.

'TAKES TIME'

"It's a question of implementing a policy that the party has already approved, and that takes time."

Across British Columbia, 31 cities were due to hold mayoralty elections, but acclamations filled 13 of the vacancies. A total of 41 candidates will contest the remaining 15 mayoralties.

BY ACCLAMATION

Of the 100 city council seats vacant, 18 were filled by acclamation and 161 candidates will try for the others. There were only 50 school board vacancies, with 21 filled by acclamation and 48 people trying for the remainder.

Four cities — Chilliwack, Dawson Creek, Greenwood and Port Coquitlam — filled all their council and school board vacancies by acclamation. And Enderby would have, except that nobody wanted the lone school board seat available.

About 300 other persons are seeking mayoralties, reeveships and commission seats in B.C.'s 12 towns, 55 villages and 38 districts.

British Columbians will also vote Dec. 9 on a wide variety of plebiscites and referenda. The

Can't Withdraw

Votes Not Wanted By Candidate

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP)

The ballot in next Tuesday's civic election will bear the names of incumbent A. M. MacIntosh, and Harry Mosher in the contest for mayor.

But Harry Mosher doesn't want the citizens to vote for him. He announced Monday he is disqualifying himself from the race because of a "technicality" concerning his eligibility.

He did not elaborate, but said he had written about the matter to town clerk N. Hiram Aikens only to be advised that his name must remain on the ballot. His intended withdrawal came after official nomination day.

Mosher said that under the circumstances he is asking New Glasgow residents not to vote for him.

Son of LSD Cult Leader 'Acting Strangely'

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — The 18-year-old son of Dr. Timothy Leary was reported under psychiatric care Monday day at Orange County Medical Centre where he was placed in protective custody by police.

John Leary, son of the LSD cult leader, was taken into custody by police Thanksgiving night. Officers said a housewife reported that the youth was on the porch of her house and was acting strangely. Officers who arrested him said young Leary appeared dazed. Dr. John Guido, resident psychiatrist at the county hospital, said the youth was "emotionally upset" but declined to name the cause of the disturbance.

Fast by a microwave tower Don Haaheim plans a shot

But he's not after moose. He's a radio transmission engineer with the B.C. Telephone Company and he's shooting for a communications path.

The temperature was 78 above, but Don Haaheim pulled a winter parka snugly about his head. He'd rather sweat than be bitten.

He was atop a mountain in British Columbia's northern interior, checking pathways for a microwave radio transmission system. The mosquitoes and black flies were so thick they obscured his vision and filled his mouth as he gasped for breath.

He was on a field trip as a B.C. Telephone Company radio transmission engineer, one of many such trips he makes as a member of a team of communications experts who plan routes and specify equipment for telephone systems to link British Columbians together.

Conditions are not like that on every field trip. In winter, the insects disappear from even the most remote site and he has only to fight sub-zero cold and icy winds.

And sometimes, in the less isolated locations, he can strip to his shirt sleeves and work in comfort as he did when the photo

Hub Of The Wheel

Tabor Mountain is the hub of the telephone wheel in northern British Columbia. From its reflectors, concentrated radio beams are shot north, south, east and west to create pathways which carry telephone calls and other communications services.

Don Haaheim (the name's Norwegian and rhymes with Ho-Hime) knows Tabor Mountain well. He also knows McLean Mountain, Mount Hays, Morfee, Bullhead, Dragon, Baldy Hughes, Kwinita, Kitsumkalum and many others.

He knows them because they are radio repeater sites in B.C. Telephone's long distance system and he's been to them to study their weather patterns, their heights, their accessibility, their physical structure.

He must know them because on his knowledge, and on the knowledge of other telephone people like him, are based the decisions which lead to construction and operation of telephone communications systems so vital to the growth and development of British Columbia.

Don Haaheim is based in Prince George, the administrative centre of B.C. Telephone's Northern Division, which encompasses the northern two-thirds of this vast and rugged province.

A New Headquarters

When he's not in the field, he's in his office in the company's Division headquarters building, a new structure built in 1966 at cost of $750,000, because the company had to have space to expand facilities and meet the telephone needs of this thriving region.

On a mountain top, in a helicopter, in a snow cat or at his desk, he applies his skills to assist B.C. Telephone in its efforts to expand economically and efficiently its $480 million telephone system serving British Columbians.

Don is a native British Columbian himself, born in New Westminster and raised in Langley. He learned much about the province's terrain as a survey crew workman between terms at the University of B.C., from which he was graduated in 1961 as an electrical engineer.

He joined B.C. Telephone that same year and moved to Prince George in 1963 after working for two years out of Vancouver, where he met and married a nurse from Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia. He and his wife, Lois, now have two young children.

Don Haaheim is an active young man, a golfer in summer, a curler in winter and from September to May a teacher of telecommunications at night-school classes at the B.C. Vocational Institute in Prince George.

He's a telephone man and he sees nothing more unusual in his tasks than in the hundreds of others performed by the more than 7,200 B.C. Telephone people working together to meet the communications challenge offered by British Columbia.

Telephone people are like that.

HE'S A PLANNER

The B.C. Telephone Company is spending more than $1 million every week to expand local and long distance telephone facilities throughout British Columbia.

Such a program requires careful attention to planning and programming, attention provided in B.C. Telephone operations by a team of more than 750 engineers, technicians, draftsmen and others skilled in telephone communications.

Don Haaheim is a member of that team.

'I Operated on the Cord And He's Recovering'

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Gordon Murray, who set off a hot medical controversy with his claim that he had found a way to repair the spinal cord, says the most outspoken skeptic in the case "doesn't know what he's talking about."

Dr. Murray denied Sunday in a broadcast interview that he had ever claimed to have removed a vertebra from a patient's spine.

Dr. William A. Drucker, surgeon-in-chief at Toronto General Hospital, said Saturday that x-rays and hospital records showed that the spine of truck driver Bertrand Proulx, operated on by Dr. Murray, had not been shortened by removal of a vertebra.

OPERATION DESCRIBED
 At a dinner Nov. 14 of the Toronto East General Hospital Research Foundation, the 73-year-old Dr. Murray described an operation to remove the damaged section of a spinal cord and rejoin it.

He explained that if a segment of the cord is actually cut out, then part of the bony spinal column must be removed to allow the ends of the shortened cord to meet.

THEN STOOD UP
 After his talk, Mr. Proulx, a 24-year-old paraplegic paralyzed in a car accident four years ago, was wheeled in, pulled himself to sitting position in bed and stood beside it with the aid of a walker.

A press conference was held Nov. 21 at which Dr. Drucker said in Dr. Murray's presence that the findings were premature and the merit of the procedure was not scientifically proved.

NO SHORTENING
 Dr. Drucker, a member of a board of University of Toronto faculty members investigating the operation, said that the operation described in press reports since Nov. 14 "involves removing one of the cervical vertebra and thereby shortening the vertebral column."

He said: "On review of the operative record and x-rays, it is evident that no operation was performed on Bertrand Proulx to shorten the cervical neck spine nor was the spinal cord transected and rejoined."

Mr. Proulx had been operated on twice to stabilize the vertebra and to remove pressure on the spinal cord. Any recovery could have resulted from physiotherapy.

'WE OPERATED'
 In an interview taped but not filmed by the CBC, Dr. Murray said: "We operated on a man and several of them with improving recovery. We operated on the cord—we did what was necessary."

"In this man we didn't take out a vertebra as Drucker said, and I never said we did. Now that's the truth."

"I've operated on a man's cord—he's moving, he's doing well. Isn't that enough?"

'OFF THE BEAT'
 Asked for comment on what Dr. Drucker had to say, Dr. Murray said: "Well, he's off the beat. He doesn't know what he's talking about."

He also said: "I didn't claim anything that I didn't do. I operated on the man's cord and he's recovering. Now that's good enough."

Dr. Murray reported Nov. 14 on operations in which the spinal cord is severed. He gave a description of animal experimentation.

DESCRIBES OPERATIONS
 The CBC program The Way It Is, on which his latest remarks were broadcast Sunday, started with an earlier filmed interview. He described operations in animals in which the spinal cord was cut and the ends brought together by taking out "enough bone of the vertebral column—the full cross-section of the vertebral column—and we take out enough that the cord would come and touch, in apposition."

"And when we did that it united. And these animals that were utterly paralyzed would get up and run around again."

DECISION
 The success with animals confronted him with the decision on whether to try it on humans.

"But it seemed to me that these people had nothing to lose. The critical thing was, could we do it without too much danger?"

"It's a terrible job really—it's a terribly big job. But we finally tackled it and we've done seven now and they're all survived, none of them are worse."

Later in the interview, he said: "The essential thing that we have proven here above all else is that the old adage that the spinal cord cannot regenerate is not true. We've shown it can regenerate."

Dr. Murray was interviewed on his return from Ottawa where he was invested Friday by Governor-General Michener as a companion of the Order of Canada.

He is world-renowned for his "blue baby" operations 20 years ago, which were acclaimed as medical firsts. He is the first man to transplant a kidney and make it work.

Nearly Half

U.K. Youth Wants To Leave

LONDON (Reuters) — A survey of teen-agers in the Daily Mail says nearly half the young people of Britain would like to emigrate.

Teen-agers who saw no pride in being British wanted to live in the U.S., Canada, Germany, New Zealand and Australia.

The Conservative newspaper, under a front-page banner headline reading Teenagers Tell: Why We Want to Quit Britain, says results of the survey by National Opinion Polls which is operated by the Daily Mail delivered an astonishing verdict on life in Britain.

STATE OF DECAY
 The young people were asked: "Do you agree or disagree with the following statement: 'I should like to emigrate.'"

The report says 43 per cent agreed, 52 per cent disagreed and 5 per cent were uncertain. In sample quotes, the newspaper indicates the young people thought Britain was in a state of decay and the government was unable to do anything about it.

Seventh time Harris Again Picked

OTTAWA — Selection of the all-star team by the Football Reporters of Canada reflected the order of finish in the Western Football Conference this season.

Nine players from the first-place Calgary Stampeders, eight from the second-place Saskatchewan Roughriders, four from the third-place Edmonton Eskimos and three from the fourth-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers were selected to the offence and defence teams.

NO LIONS

The trailing B.C. Lions failed to put a player on either club. Wayne Harris, Calgary's amazing middle-linebacker, made it for the seventh straight year and was one of four unanimous choices.

Others who got every vote were fullback George Reed and defence-lacke Ed McQuatters of Saskatchewan and split-end Terry Evanshen of Calgary.

SEVEN RETURNEES

In addition to Harris, outside-linebacker Wayne Shaw of Saskatchewan and defence-back Jerry Keeling of Calgary were named to the defence team last year. Returnees on offence are Evanshen and linemen Ted Urness, Jack Abendschan and Clyde Brock of Saskatchewan.

Two import changes were the selection of Calgary-quarterback Peter Liske over Saskatchewan's Ron Lancaster and Winnipeg-flanker Ken Nielsen over Saskatchewan's Hugh Campbell.

West vs Scots For Jackson Cup

Defending champions Victoria West advanced to the Jackson Cup soccer competition final Sunday by defeating Red Lion Inn, 3-0, at Heywood Avenue Park behind the sparkling goal-keeping of Don Head and a stubborn defense.

Ranjit Dhillon scored twice for Wests on breakaways and set up Doug Hill for the other goal while Brian Cornell, Bill Duckworth and Bill Munroe played well on defense to help Head get his shutout against the potent Red Lion attack.

BOUNCE HOURS

Last season's finalists, Canadian Scottish, earned the other berth in a rough game at Central Park, thumping Hourigan's Kickers, 4-1.

Hank de Bruin gave Kickers the early lead on a penalty shot but Scottish came back with second half tallies by Jack Breuker, Old McInnes, Franz van Doesburg and Russ Lamb. Wests and Scottish met in the final on Saturday at Heywood at 2 p.m.

OTTAWA (CP) — Grey Cup Week was kicked off officially Monday by Mayor Don Reid with neither of the competing teams in town and the weather alternating between bright sun, a flurry of snow and drizzle.

The sun was shining bright when the symbol ball was booted down Rideau Street.

The hope is that "serious" snow will stay away until at least Saturday evening so that groundsmen at Lansdowne Park will have the added time to prepare the new turf for the cleats of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

ARRIVE WEDNESDAY

Saskatchewan is expected to fly in Wednesday with Hamilton arriving by train Wednesday.

The playing area of Lansdowne Park was left uncovered Monday and was expected to remain that way as long as no unexpected amounts of rain or snow fell.

The temperature for the kick-off ceremony was 35 degrees with a 25 mile an hour wind blowing out of the west.

But nothing, not even the Rough Rider playoff loss, is expected seriously to dim the round of festivities planned before, during and after the game, set for 1 p.m. EST Saturday, Dec. 2. The game will be televised on both the CBC and CTV national networks.

Two major innovations planned for the week are a "coach's press conference" Thursday when reporters from across the country will be given

New York Rangers have acquired veteran right-winger Ron Stewart from St. Louis Blues in a four-player National Hockey League trade. The Rangers gave up centre Red Berenson and defence-man Barclay Plager to get Stewart and centre Ron Attwell. The 35-year-old Stewart, who has scored 227 goals in 16 NHL seasons, was leading the Blues with seven goals.

SOCIAL WEEK

But even for them it won't be all work as they break for a variety of dinners, luncheons and get-togethers including a dinner Wednesday for the outstanding players of 1967—Peter Liske and Terry Evanshen of Calgary and Ed McQuatters of Saskatchewan.

Thursday they get away for the annual CFL luncheon and for dinner that evening for nominators of the league's outstanding trio.

It's the first time Ottawa has been the site of an East-West football final since 1939 and with nine special trains expected from western Canada as well as unknown numbers from the Hamilton area, it could be the last they'll want for about as long a time.

The Canadian football championship game was last held here in 1966 and is scheduled for Toronto next year.

TOOK ADVANTAGE

Abendschan converted for 14-0 but Ford's blocked punt gave Stampeders their first real chance, and Liske took them 26 yards in three plays, a 12-yard pass to Herm Harrison and two swing passes to Lovell Coleman, who went over.

Goods' convert try was deflected as the Stampeders left at half-time no worse off than 6-14.

But they failed to make a first down in the third quarter while Abendschan kicked an 18-yard field goal to boost Riders' lead to 17-6.

With quarterback Peter Liske missing his favorite receiver, Terry Evanshen, and thrown five times for losses, the Stampeders managed only a net of 112 yards.

Liske managed to complete 14 of 34 passes for 129 yards but Calgary's ground game produced a loss of 17 yards.

With Reed making seven first downs himself and setting up others with his time-consuming play, the Riders managed a half-control game against a stubborn Calgary defence.

They picked up 304 yards rushing and 124 in the air as Ron Lancaster completed nine of 18 passes. He threw 14 of them in the first half to help get his team ahead but stayed with Reed and the safe possession game in the last 30 minutes.

NEEDED THE HELP
Only a blocked punt and a fumble prevented the Riders from scoring a shutout.

Stampeders got to 14-6 late in the second quarter after Ken Suderman blocked a punt, then scored again late in the fourth quarter after Al Ford fumbled the snap trying to punt.

That set up a thrilling finish as Stampeders scored in four plays from the Saskatchewan 35-yard line. Bob McCarthy got the touchdown on a six-yard pass, Bill Goods made the convert and the Stampeders got the ball back with 20 seconds left on an onside kickoff.

WHO ELSE
Linebacker Wayne Harris, the outstanding Stampeders in the series, made the recovery with a leaping catch but Ted Dushinski intercepted as Liske made one last desperation throw.

Riders struck quickly for their first touchdown, going 52 yards in four plays the first time they got the ball.

Gordie Barwell got 48 yards on the first play by taking a long pass from Lancaster. Reed was stopped for one yard but Lancaster caught the Stampeders stacked up on the next play and Jim Carphin was all by himself in the end zone when Lancaster lobbed the ball to him.

Stampeders managed only one first down in the first quarter,

Cougar Coach Hopeful

Victoria Cougars will be trying to end their winless streak at seven games tonight when they meet the rugged New Westminster Royals in a B.C. Junior Hockey League game at Memorial Arena.

Colts Stay Clean But Playoff Spot Hangs in Balance

Green Bay Packers clinched one of the four National Football League playoff spots Sunday and Dallas Cowboys have a second spot all but a mathematical certainty but the other two division championships are still up for grabs.

Baltimore Colts, professional football's only unbeaten club came from behind in San Francisco for their ninth win in 11 games but are still only a game ahead of Los Angeles Rams with three games left for both clubs.

PACKERS FIRST
Rams have the toughest schedule, having to get by the Packers to keep their chances alive in the Western Conference's Coastal Division unless the Colts stumble before the two clubs tangle in Los Angeles on Dec. 17 in the final scheduled game of the season.

It's just as close in the Eastern Conference's Century Division, where Cleveland Browns are 7-0, New York's surprising Giants are 6-5 and St. Louis Cardinals are 5-5-1.

Colts got an argument from the 49ers before pulling out a 26-9 win. The 49ers took a 6-0 lead on two field goals by Tommy Davis but Colts pulled even early in the third quarter on the second of four field goals by Lou Michaels, then went ahead to stay when Lenny Lyles intercepted a pass by Steve Spurrier and ran 36 yards for a touchdown.

WILD VICTORY
Leroy Kelly scored two touchdowns as he ran for 163 yards to pass the 1,000-yard mark for the season to lead the Browns ahead of the Giants, who went on a scoring binge to pulverize Philadelphia Eagles, 44-7, behind the passing of Fran Tarkenton.

Tarkenton passed for 268 yards and three touchdowns as the Giants scored every time they got the ball in the first half to pile up a 34-7 in 30 minutes. Defeat just about wrecked the chances of the Eagles and Redskins catching the Cowboys. The Dallas club is 8-3-0, the Eagles are 5-6 and the Redskins are 4-5-2. As little as a tie for either of the three clubs in the remaining three games clinches it for the Cowboys.

CLINCHING WIN
Packers made it certain by getting a hard-earned 17-13 decision over Chicago Bears, the only club which had a chance to catch them.

Minnesota Vikings, although long since out of contention in their division, continued to indicate they'll be a lot tougher under coach Bud Grant and quarterback Joe Kapp in their second seasons.

Kapp threw two touchdowns

NEXT GAMES: Wednesday — Montreal at Toronto; Detroit at New York; Minnesota at Boston; Philadelphia at Chicago; Oakland at Pittsburgh; Los Angeles at St. Louis.

National Hockey League expansion can already be termed a success.

Although their winning percentage is nothing to cause raves, expansion clubs have done considerably better than had been expected, there are signs of better attendance and the established Eastern Division appears about to enjoy what could be its closest race in history.

LAST AT 500
After Sunday night's four games, Montreal Canadiens were last in the Eastern Division, but they had 20 points from 20 games and were only six points behind the surprising Boston Bruins, who seem intent on emulating baseball's Red Sox and giving Boston another winner.

Full of skate and effort, the Bruins took over the lead Sunday by outscoring Detroit Red Wings, 7-5, before 13,909 fans, who set up the "We're No. 1" chant when the Bruins scored twice late in the third period after blowing a 5-2 lead.

THEY'RE STREAKING
It was the third successive win for the Bruins, their fifth in their last six games — a streak in which their only loss was to Pittsburgh Penguins.

John McKenzie scored a goal in each period to pace the Boston attack, which opened up 3-0 and 5-2 leads, but it was Tom Williams who shot the winning 1-0 with less than four minutes left.

New York Rangers pulled into a third-place tie with the Wings, getting a goal from Phil Goyette with just over four minutes left to sneak by the unfortunate St. Louis Blues, 1-0.

MARTIN BRILLIANT
Gilles Villeneuve scored the shutout. The former Vancouver goaltender played steadily in making 35 stops but it would have been a lot easier except for the outstanding play of Seth Macdonald, the former Canadian Olympic team goalkeeper. Martin was often spectacular in blocking 37 shots.

Two power-play goals by Doug Mohns in the second period brought Chicago Black Hawks out of the Eastern Division cellar and tied them with the Rangers and Wings for third place.

Mohns' goals gave the Hawks a 2-1 win over Minnesota North Stars, who wasted an outstanding job of goalkeeping by Cesare Maniago. Dave Balon got their only goal late in the third period.

In Sunday's other game, Philadelphia Flyers scored their fourth straight win and moved into the lead in the Western Division by trouncing Los Angeles Kings, 7-2, before 11,420 Philadelphia fans. Flyers have now won seven and tied three of their last eleven games.

Mahovlich Ready

TORONTO — Frank Mahovlich has missed 11 games since Nov. 1, when he was a star in the 5-0 drubbing Leafs handed Canadiens. He had scored four goals and made seven assists in the nine games he had played. He visited the Toronto dressing-room Saturday night and said he was "anxious to get tension and depression, Mahovlich going again."

Move Against Spitter

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Baseball took steps to crack down on illegal spitball pitching and acted to speed up the game by eliminating dead spots as the annual winter meetings opened Monday.

Phil Pilon, president of the National Association (minor leagues) announced his retirement, effective December, 1968, when his current five-year term expires. Pilon said his retirement was not influenced by the minor leagues' problems in an era of expansion—he saw a promising future for the minors.

The spitball, outlawed for years, came under direct attack at a unique meeting of general managers and field managers of the 20 major league teams. The managers also asked the majors group asked the rules committee to eliminate the spitter by putting teeth into existing rules and eliminating any movement of a pitcher to his mouth.

Charles Segar, chairman of the Playing Rules Committee, announced a change in the rules, effective with the start of the 1968 season, by which a pitcher is not permitted to bring his pitching hand in contact with his mouth or lips.

Segar said the umpire would warn a pitcher for the first violation and would disqualify him for the rest of the game if the action was repeated.

Marijuana Found in Carton

An RCMP officer told central magistrate's court Monday how he found three plastic bags containing marijuana in a milk carton in a basement suite Oct. 28.

Francis Neel, 476 Dupplin, pleaded not guilty to the possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking and not guilty to the possession of methamphetamine — a drug controlled by the Food and Drug Act — for the purpose of trafficking.

Constable Daniel Stene said he and Constable Gerald O'Neill and Victoria Det.-Constable Murray MacArthur broke the outside door to Neel's suite after they received no reply to two knocks.

SLANG TERM
Constable Stene said after he found the milk carton in the refrigerator containing the green substance, he held up the carton so Neel and another man could see it and said: "What have we here?"

He said Neel replied: "You've found my grass."

Constable O'Neill said grass was a slang term for marijuana.

Constable Stene said that a Sanich police officer removed Neel's personal effects at the Sanich police station, including a wallet.

SMALL PACKAGES
Constable Stene said he found four small silver paper packages in the wallet, containing a powdery material. He was unable to identify the powder but a certificate of analysis filed in the court described it as methamphetamine.

Constable MacArthur said he thought Constable Stene removed Neel's personal effects himself.

Crown counsel Rodney Taylor said both counts required the court to make a finding regarding possession of the substances before discussing the trafficking aspects.

Magistrate Order reserved decision on the possession aspects until Friday.

Robert Price appeared for the defence.

Christopher Perry, 19, of CFB Esquimalt was remanded to Dec. 3 for sentence after he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. A similar charge against Douglas Carlson, 19, of HMCS Columbia was withdrawn.

Detective Walter Cahwell said he entered a room Nov. 18 at the Crystal Court Motel, 710 Belleville. Behind a radio cabinet he found three marijuana cigarettes.

He said Perry told him that he had bought four marijuana cigarettes in Toronto and had smoked one that afternoon.

A charge rarely laid in Victoria was read against Shirley Stella Wright of 2190 Neil. She was charged with giving contradictory evidence while a witness in a proceeding under the Wives' and Children's Maintenance Act April 18, 1966, and as a witness at a proceeding under the Juvenile Delinquency Act July 28 of this year.

Both proceedings were before Magistrate Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre and the evidence dealt with the ownership of a stereo set.

Mrs. Wright pleaded not guilty and was remanded to Dec. 18 for trial.

Two men who refused to leave an apartment when asked were drunk. James Erikson, 903 North Park, pleaded guilty.

He lifted the table Friday after being refused service at the Melrose Cafe, 622 Yates.

Albert Edward Anderson, no fixed address, was remanded to Friday for plea on three counts of gaining lodgings by fraud at the Doric Motel, 3025 Douglas.

Edith Buzzard, 1228 Pearce, was fined $100 when she pleaded guilty to stealing $37.35 worth of goods from Woodward's, 3125 Douglas, Nov. 23.

Derick Davis, 20, 2973 Doncaster, was fined $350 when he pleaded guilty to driving while his licence was suspended.

Prosecutor Cory Skolke said Davis went to the motor vehicle branch Friday and asked if he could have his licence for the next day so he could attend a wedding. He was told to submit his request in writing to the superintendent of the branch.

Davis was then seen driving away from the office and was arrested 90 minutes later.

Raymond Fenwick, 1215 Esquimalt, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by being drunk and was fined $35. He slumped across the registration desk of the Dominion Hotel, 730 Yates, Saturday night and used obscene language.

A man who lifted a cafe table off the floor in spite of it being screwed down was fined $35 for causing a disturbance by being

Does Mental Stress Make You Physically Ill?

Emotional stress can produce real illness — a true change in body chemistry and structure. Case histories show how a "heart disease" . . . a "miscarriage" . . . a serious "back ailment" were all caused by an emotional disturbance in the patient's life. December Reader's Digest reports that emotion-caused disorders now account for perhaps two out of every three visits to the doctor and tells how he diagnoses an illness he suspects stems from stress. This absorbing and helpful article also tells how you can help your doctor decide whether your illness was caused by an abrupt change in your daily life. It's in December Digest — on sale now.

London Life's new Opportunity Program would make a truly rewarding gift for a youngster.

London Life introduces a unique financial opportunity for the young

If you have ever wondered about life insurance for children, you should consider these eight facts about London Life's new Opportunity Program. This unique savings and protection plan lets you give a child the choice of several valuable advantages. Designed for children 15 and under, it offers cash flexibility never before available in a life insurance policy. Here are the facts:

1. Policy paid for at 25
The Opportunity Program gives your child, at age 25, a life insurance policy that is completely paid for — plus an automatic cash payment. This policy would become the cornerstone of your child's life insurance program. And, a completely paid-for policy provides excellent collateral for borrowing the down payment on a house or meeting other needs that face young married people.

OR YOU MAY CHOOSE THIS OPTION IN THE OPPORTUNITY PROGRAM:

2. Money for education
The Opportunity Program is designed to release cash for education and still provide a lifetime program of insurance. The size of this cash fund depends on the size of the Opportunity Program you give your child. He may never require the money. But, if a need does arise, cash will be available for education, specialist training, a start in business, or to meet an unforeseen emergency.

OR THE OPPORTUNITY PROGRAM COULD BE USED THIS WAY:

3. Money for marriage
The Opportunity Program makes cash available when your child marries. And, as you know, cash is nearly always welcome when a home is being started . . . for the honeymoon, appliances, furniture, or down payment on a house. What better gift could you give a young man or woman on their marriage? But most important, if the cash is taken out, the lifetime program of insurance may be continued.

Now read about the other important advantages of the Opportunity Program.

4. Low premiums
Life insurance for children costs less. And the sooner you purchase the Opportunity Program for your child, the lower the cost. The lowest possible premium rate, for example, is during your child's first year. Low cost is a factor your child will appreciate as he reaches maturity.

5. Growing values
Each year, dividends increase the value of your child's Opportunity Program. While future dividends are not guaranteed, London Life has one of the most outstanding records of dividend payments in North America.

6. Guaranteed program of investment and protection
You can use the "self-completing" feature of the Opportunity Program to ensure that, in the event of your death or total disability, your child's investment and protection program will be completed without further payments.

7. Option to buy more
For a small extra premium, London Life's guaranteed insurance option can, in most cases, be added to the Opportunity Program. This means that your child can purchase a specified amount of additional insurance in the future regardless of health or occupation. If you decide to include the option with the Opportunity Program, more insurance can be purchased on six option dates between ages 25 and 40.

8. Money management
One of the most important things parents can teach their children is how to handle money effectively. With the Opportunity Program you can enter a "partnership" by letting your child take over or share payments at a certain age. Your child's participation in the Opportunity Program will help him develop an appreciation of the value of careful money management.

These are eight important facts about London Life's new Opportunity Program. It is a unique investment and protection plan for children. No other plan lets you give a child such valuable opportunities for so moderate a cost.

For more information about the new Opportunity Program for children 15 years old and under, phone a London Life Insurance Company office listed in the telephone directory. A London Life representative may give you a new outlook on the value of life insurance for children!

B.C. Chessman Fifth In Top U.S. Match

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (Special) — Ray Kerr of Victoria placed fifth in a field of 133 in the all-west coast chess championship concluded here Sunday.

The All-American chess tournament, probably the second strongest in North America, was won by Dr. Anthony Saidy of Los Angeles.

Saidy posted a 7½-½ score in the eight-round, four-day event, followed by John Blackstone of San Francisco and Pal Benio of New York, 7-1, Walter Browne of Los Angeles, 6½-½, and Kerr won, 6-2.

Saidy received $1,000 for his first-place finish while Kerr won a $100 prize for leading the experts classification. In addition, Kerr's showing would earn him a U.S. Chess Federation masters title.

Included in the gargantuan tournament were two chess grandmasters, three international masters, eight masters and 27 experts.

Most of the players were from the U.S. while Kerr was the only representative from the Pacific Northwest Chess Association, which consists of B.C., Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Shipyard Study Planned

George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, said Monday he will delay his return to Ottawa by a day, to look into the unemployment picture among Victoria shipyard workers.

Mr. Chatterton returned to Victoria recently from a month-long tour of African countries.

'Out with Liberals'

Retiring Tory Calls for Action

By GEORGE INGLIS
The retiring president of the Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative Association called in ringing tones for an immediate ouster of the present government, at the group's annual meeting Monday.

In his last act in office, Russell Simpson told the association members not to be lulled into thinking the present national increase of interest in the PC's was because of the personal popularity of the new leader, Robert Stanfield.

"If we blithely go along thinking we can live on the popularity of Mr. Stanfield until this bumbling government commits hara kiri and brings itself down, then I think we will have made a gross error in judgment of the political scene," he said.

Mr. Simpson said it was the moment for Conservatives to strike while public opinion toward the party was warm, adding, "I believe Canadians have been apprehensive of the Liberal government over the past two years but there was no alternative in sight. We were still under the cloud of friction and dissension hanging over from 1963 and Canadians, not being Socialists, could not find the New Democratic Party an acceptable alternative."

"You will recollect," he continued, "that our party worked like Trojans selling the accumulated grain crops that were rotting in the elevators and shoring up the sick economy, and at the same time tried to cope with a terrible unemployment problem brought about solely by the stupid and wasteful policies of this same government."

NO LESS DETERMINED

Conservative MP George Chatterton the member for the riding, was slightly less vehement but no less determined it was "time the present government be thrown out of office."

Mr. Chatterton criticized the fact that "in a year when our productivity was extraordinarily high, our government operated on almost three-quarters of a billion dollars deficit."

"The government is in a mess," he said.

Mr. Chatterton said the government would have to reduce expenditures greatly next year, and, since it could not reduce those decreed by statute, it would have to go the unpopular route of reducing projects.

In discussion of the party working under the new leader, he said party caucuses are being held regularly, with a steering committee meeting every morning to give the leader and members direction for the day's activities in the House.

He apologized for delay in announcement of definite Conservative policies, but said the reason was Mr. Stanfield's desire to evolve policies for the future.

"The only important policy now," he said, "is to kick the Liberals out, because they are ruining the country by the day."

Gwynedd Owen was elected by acclamation to succeed Mr. Simpson as president; vice-president, John Davies, acclamation; secretary, Mrs. Vera Ashford, re-elected, and treasurer, Arthur Round, re-elected.

New Reynolds School Wins Recognition

The new Reynolds Secondary School in Saanich has been chosen for national recognition at the Canadian Education Showplace next January in Toronto.

Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, said Monday that the school will be featured in an exhibition of school architecture at the three-day show.

The school, which opened last September at McKenzie and Reynolds in the Lake Hill area, was designed by the firm of Peterson and Lester.

It encloses a courtyard and was designed for maximum use by the community.

The school opened with 450 junior high school pupils, but in the next few years will become a junior and senior high school.

Long-Time Resident Dies at 81

Long-time Victoria resident, Arthur J. Knappett, died Monday at 81.

Mr. Knappett lived in the Greater Victoria area for 76 years and at the time of his death resided at 1140 Craigflower Road.

He is survived by his wife, Nellie; sons Harold and Donald, both in Seattle; daughter Mrs. G. J. (June) Hetherington of Victoria; 10 grandchildren; and sisters Maud Knappett and Mrs. Alice Roberts, both of Victoria.

Funeral services will be at 10:15 a.m. Thursday at McCall Brothers' Chapel with Rev. Canon George Biddle officiating.

Bad Luck Follows Family

It has been a bad week for the Hartnell family of 907 Royal Terrace.

Shortly after 3 p.m. Monday, seven-year-old Roxanna Hartnell was knocked down by a car at Blanshard and Belleville and is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with head injuries.

PEDESTRIAN INCIDENT
Police identified the driver as Wesley Arden, 423 Luxton.

Last Wednesday, Mrs. Strickland was the driver of a car involved in an accident in which pedestrian Miss Winifred Tucker, 84, of 340 Linden, died after being knocked down on Fairfield.

Mrs. Hartnell was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with facial lacerations received when her car mounted the curb and uprooted a boulevard tree after striking the elderly woman. She has since been released.

MINOR INJURIES
Adrian Hartnell, 12, a passenger in the car, was also taken to hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and later released.

In a morning accident Monday, Mrs. Ann Bushby, 80, of Thunderbird Apartments, suffered facial cuts and a possible ankle fracture when a car driven by her husband, James, struck a rock bluff on the Trans-Canada Highway near Brock.

Mrs. Bushby is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

WRIST HURT
Mrs. Aileen Oliver, 42, 2050 McNeill, injured her wrist in a collision with a car while crossing Fairfield at Cook Street at 3:54 p.m. Monday. She was treated in St. Joseph's Hospital and released.

Victoria police said the car was driven by Marcus Ireland, 312 Arnold.

Pandora Death

Jury Recommends Lighting Study

A coroner's jury Monday ruled accidental death in the traffic fatality of Alfred Kneen, 1345 Stanley, and recommended a study of the lighting for the south side of Pandora Avenue.

The jury attached no blame to Lloyd Clarkson, 1274 Haultain, driver of the car involved in a collision with pedestrian Kneen at Pandora and Stanley last Wednesday night.

Traffic officers testified that the lighting for the eastbound curb lane where Mr. Kneen had started to cross the street was only fair.

The jury recommended a survey of the lighting be made, especially at intersections. It also suggested another study be made with a view to adding more crosswalks.

Only Stephen Re-Elected by Acclamation

Municipal Races Attract 64-Entry Field

Sixty-four candidates Monday formally entered Greater Victoria's municipal election races, for 24 positions. Ballotting will be Dec. 9.

Mayor Hugh Stephen of Victoria got back into office by acclamation, but his counterparts in most of the other areas will have a hectic time during the next 12 days.

Among them will be Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, opposed at the last minute by accountant Gordon Campbell.

Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt has two opponents: Coun. Arthur Mebs and businessman George Argyle.

Following the resignation of Reeve Alan Cox of Oak Bay, two councillors, Fred Hawes and J. D. Watts, decided to contest his job.

between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at City Hall.

Saanich and Oak Bay — Dec. 7 and 8 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the municipal hall.

The ratepayers of Saanich, in addition to having a choice for reeve, also have 11 candidates from which to choose four councillors.

This will be the longest ballot of any municipal council in the Greater Victoria area.

In Victoria, eight candidates are seeking the four vacancies on city council.

The city is taking two major steps to stimulate interest in this year's election. The first involves setting up multiple polling subdivisions.

In addition to the principal station at 1600 Government, there will be stations at Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped, 220 Bay, James Bay elementary school, Simcoe at Oswego, Sir James Douglas Elementary School auditorium on Thurlow and Oaklands Elementary School, 2827 Beaton.

During the week preceding election day, the city will hold a "Get Out and Vote" campaign.

Bye, Bye Bunting

Bunting, crests and flags erected for two years of centennial celebrations are being removed from the legislative buildings. They were put up in February, 1966, and kept for this year's national birthday party. Officials said the dismantling job will take about three days. — (Kinsman)

Major Conference

Adoption Issues To Be Aired Here

A major conference on child of America, who is coming here adoption, involving experts from across Canada and United States, and also children and parents who have actually been involved in the procedure, will take place in Victoria next month.

The conference is sponsored by the social welfare department, and the delegates will be coming here at the invitation of Dan Campbell, the minister. At one session, he will be questioned by Jack Webster, the Vancouver open-line radio commentator.

LEAGUE DIRECTOR
Among the speakers will be Myron Chevin, assistant director of the Child Welfare League

Committee Still Idle

Esquimalt's A committee meeting was cancelled for the second consecutive time Monday night because of lack of business. The last meeting was Oct. 30.

The three sub-committees involved are fire, finance, and planning and zoning.

Sidney's mayoralty race also had a last-minute entry: businessman Dudley Johnson. Other candidates are incumbent Mayor A. W. Freeman and former municipal clerk A. W. Sharp.

In North Saanich, incumbent Reeve J. B. Cumming will have to battle it out with Dr. A. B. Nash, the municipality's first reeve.

The issues aren't clear yet, but there will likely be many because a reeve'ship or mayoralty race always seems to exert a centrifugal force on the election scene.

The voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9, at various places in each municipality.

For anyone who will be out of town that day, here are the advance polls:

Seen In Passing

Stephanie Williams talking to a friend. . . Gail Peterson saying hello.

A federal government employee who is the brother of an incumbent Saanich councillor has filed as a candidate for reeve.

Income tax assessor Gordon Campbell, 1515 Oakcrest, is the only person who filed to oppose incumbent Reeve Hugh Curtis.

Mr. Campbell is president of the Victoria area council of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, which he says represents 5,000 persons in this area and is the second biggest union in Canada.

He was president of the Saanich Information Committee, which was in existence from 1957 until its dissolution this year, and which three or four times opposed amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities.

"More positively," says Mr. Campbell, "we fought to protect and maintain as many as possible of the existing opportunities for citizens to involve themselves in municipal government through contact with and participation in their several local governments."

Mr. Campbell's views on sewage disposal are well known. He is a member of the Saanich Action Committee which opposes the discharge of raw sewage into offshore waters as planned for the $23,500,000 sewerage system approved by Greater Victoria municipalities.

INSPECTED SYSTEMS

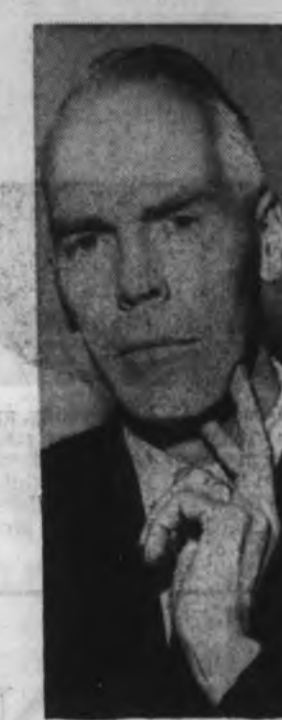

He returned at midnight Sunday from a 10-day holiday in California, during which he inspected various disposal systems.

"I have no doubt, whatever," he said Monday night, "that there are preferable alternatives to dumping raw sewage in the sea, that they would not necessarily cost more than the present proposal, and may have benefits that the present proposals do not have."

NATIVE OF SAANICH

Mr. Campbell, who is 48, a native of Saanich, was educated at Royal Oak school and Mt. View high school. He took his degree as a certified general accountant by studying after school.

He began 16 years of municipal administration experience in June, 1938, as a tax clerk for Saanich municipality. After 3 1/2 years, during which he spent a short time in the RCAF, he went to Kamloops as city accountant. He stayed there 10 years, and when he left was city clerk and treasurer. His next job was as municipal treasurer in Delta municipality. In 1954 he took his present federal position.

Campbell

Candidate's Concern

What to Grab, Pen or Hose?

It's not good enough for Esquimalt to have handymen in the police department, wondering whether to grab a pen and a book of traffic tickets, or gumboots and hose, every time the phone rings, according to last minute council candidate Ernest R. Brown, 649 Admirals Road.

Filing his papers, Monday, Mr. Brown, who has been attending council meetings for the last two years, said he has the utmost respect for the men in the department.

"They're brave men, but it's not fair to ask them to do two jobs. Policemen should be policemen, and firemen should be firemen," said the Dockyard electrician.

Mr. Brown would like to see a small fire department capable of dealing with emergency rescue work. He advocates inter-municipal consultation before a full scale fire department is set up.

Mr. Brown wants to see public business taken from behind closed doors, so voters will know what is being done, and why.

He would also like to see changes in zoning regulations to encourage apartment building in Esquimalt.

"The present apartment regulations, like the anti-noise-by-law are something wonderful, but are not practical in today's world," he said.

Long-Term Aid

Hike Organizers May Carry On

By BILL STAVDAL

Organizers of the March for Millions today will begin plans to continue what Saturday's great community hike began.

University of Victoria students will meet at the Greater Victoria School Board headquarters with special projects organizer Kenneth Bloomfield.

Bob Taylor, the UVic student who headed the march organization, said on Monday that the huge enthusiasm which the event generated ought to be channelled toward long-term overseas development.

7,000 FINISHED

Close to 10,500 people hiked all or part of 25.8 miles to raise money from their sponsors. Most of the marchers were teenagers and university students, and 7,000 of them finished.

Mr. Taylor, 21, said on Monday that he is cautiously optimistic that the event will raise more than the hoped-for $100,000.

At Willows elementary school in Oak Bay, 75 children began the march and averaged $17.36 each in pledges. Of the 75, 48 finished and the school raised a total of $1,302, said Mr. Taylor.

NOW THEY'RE SORRY

"And we've had a lot of calls from people who say they are sorry they didn't go along on the march, and want to make a contribution," he said.

Today's meeting will explore ways of continuing interest in aiding underdeveloped countries on a local basis. An annual march is a possibility, said Mr. Taylor.

"More important, we want something that will be carried on through the year," he said.

CLEAN-UP

The project committee will try to organize a clean-up of several feeding-station areas left littered in the wake of the marchers. Mt. Douglas Park and Kinsmen Gorge Park were showered in debris, partly because of lack of garbage containers.

Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, heaped praise on the areas' teenagers.

"It's probably the happiest experience I've had since I came here," he said Monday.

Bunn Returned

Trustee Battle Warmer

Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, was re-elected by acclamation Monday when nominations closed with no opposition for him.

Mr. Bunn's acclamation means there will be no trustee election in Oak Bay, the municipality he has represented for six years.

Elsewhere across the capital region, competition for seats on school boards has suddenly warmed up.

HOUSEWIFE ENTERS

In Victoria, Mrs. Daphne Temple filed papers at the last minute to make it a four-way contest for two seats. Mrs. Temple, 1243 Richardson, a housewife active in education, also ran last year.

Running in Victoria are incumbents John Porteous and Dr. Victor Rogers, plus newcomer Lloyd Brereton, 1337 Fairfield.

There are six candidates for the single Greater Victoria School Board seat open in urban Saanich.

SAANICH CONTEST

They are: Douglas Brown, 3895 Scotton; William Hibbert, 1825 San Pedro; Richard Reeve, 4105 Torquay; Mrs. R. B. Restall, 3208 Bellevue; Kennedy Smyth, 2801 Shilling; and Cecil Wyatt, 3461 Mayfair.

There is no school trustee election in Esquimalt this year.

Saanich School Board got a new trustee by acclamation Monday. He is Major Charles E. C. MacNeill, 1492 Land's End Road, who will sit for North Saanich.

ALL NEWCOMERS

Maj. MacNeill, a retired Canadian Army officer, replaces John Kennard, who did not seek re-election.

Rural Saanich voters (from Royal Oak north) will choose one of five candidates, all newcomers. They are John Armstrong, 814 Claremont; John Blinke, 4865 Cherry Tree Bend; Nels Granewall, 5530 Alderley; A. H. Murphy, 5225 Patricia Bay Highway, and Stanley Oakes, 814 Royal Oak.

A last-minute candidate in Central Saanich will oppose Vernon Beaumont, who has served one term.

DEFENCE CHEMIST

The newcomer is Lannie King Yee, 2660 Island View, a chemist working for the Defence Research Board.

There is no trustee election in Sidney this year.

In Sooke School District there will be trustee elections in both the Belmont and Milne's Landing areas.

BELMONT RACE

In Belmont, incumbents Fred Wilway and Darvis Cook are being opposed by Albert Canning, Frederick Boulter and Howard Drummond.

In the Milne's Landing sector, Claude MacDonald will try to unseat either board chairman John Bartanus or Ardle Wickheim. Mr. MacDonald trailed in a three-way race last year.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

A Fine Arrangement — By telegram we learn that the steamer California leaves San Francisco on Wednesday next 4th December, for Port Townsend, Seattle, Bellingham and Olympia, landing the Victoria passengers at Port Townsend. Nothing is said about the mail; but we suppose they will be dumped with the passengers. So much for Executive stupidity and extravagance.

New Book — Currie Carillon's Popular Letter Writer.—San Francisco: A. Roman & Co. — This work will be found a valuable assistance to those engaged in epistolary correspondence. It possesses a great advantage over most other publications of the kind, in that the letters contain a sort of continuous record of the doings of a family in America. For sale by T. N. Hibben & Co.

Christ Church Cathedral Women's Parish Guild Christmas bazaar will be held in the Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 2 to 5 p.m. Carols will be sung by the Boys' Choir under direction of Mr. Richard Proudman. There will be tea, sale of

Silver Holder Talisman

A hand-made sterling silver holder which had belonged to her great-grandmother held the bridal bouquet of white carnations and sweetheart roses when Katharine Lillian Dent became the bride of Robert Bruce Johnston in Metropolitan United Church.

Her bouquet complemented her gown which was a sheer cage of ligoda which featured lily point sleeves and a cathedral train sweeping back from the shoulders. Venice lace flowers encircled the neckline and starred the bodice, and matching lace trimmed the cathedral veil which misted from a floral headpiece that was studded with pearls.

Dr. F. E. H. James officiated at the service uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edward Dent, 210 Michigan Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yule Johnston, 944 Easter Road. Mr. Dent gave his daughter in marriage.

Pink chrysanthemums with ferns and ivy decorated the church. Eric Boothroyd was the organist.

Mrs. David Johnston was matron of honor, Miss Gail Doswell, bridesmaid and Miss Vicki Johnston, junior bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of pale pink peau de soie with toning net headpieces and carried bouquets of white carnations and sweetheart roses.

David Johnston acted as best man and Gerald Dent and Kris Geiselson ushered the guests.

At the reception following in the church hall, Sidney McDonald, Ottawa, the bride's great-uncle proposed the toast.

As her costume for travelling on honeymoon to California and Arizona the bride chose a brown suit with matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter, 628 Transit Road, wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their youngest daughter, Donna Marie, to Mr. Brian Duncan Pearce, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearce, 277 Plowright Road. The wedding will take place at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 23 in All Saints' Church, View Royal. Rev. John Vickers will officiate.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH

The ACW will hold the Christmas bazaar on Sat., Dec. 2, from 2:30 to 5 p.m. in the parish hall, West Saanich Road. There will be tea, homecooking and novelties.

Kicks Off!

OLDHAM, England (CP) — Jeanie Fairly, 9, was given unusual therapy to overcome a lack of confidence which has been hampering her school work—she was put in the boys' soccer team. "It proved a real confidence booster," said a teacher. But some of the boys now have inferiority complexes; she is better than they are.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merrill advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

BIRKS JEWELLERS

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: To put it bluntly, what can be done about friends who don't know when to go home?

Some people think that just because it is a Friday or Saturday night and they can sleep until noon the next day, everyone in the world can. It so happens that Saturday is my husband's busiest day and Sunday morning we must get up to go to church.

Last Friday two couples sat here until 2:30 a.m. and I was ready to climb the walls. My husband kept signalling me to get rid of them and I did drop several hints — but nobody budged.

Please come up with an answer, Ann. We need your help.—TRAPPED TIL DAWN

Dear Trapped: I have always operated on the theory that nothing very brilliant gets said after midnight, particularly if the booze is flowing — and it usually is.

I also notice that the reluctance of guests to go home is in direct relation to the amount of liquor they have consumed. Most home parties are dinners which begin about seven o'clock. I figure five hours of food, drink and witty conversation is enough for anybody. At midnight I stand and say, "It's been a wonderful evening and tomorrow is here already, so good night everybody."

For those who are hard of hearing or pretend to be, I add another sentence: "The party is over. Good night one and all." The wives invariably take it from there.

Dear Ann Landers: Every Christmas an organization in our city exercises the fine tradition of buying new shoes for needy children. The group's generosity is duly covered on TV, which I suppose is fair enough from the organization's standpoint. My concern is for the children.

When the TV camera dolries in and catches these tykes close up, most of them cringe in embarrassment. I have the feeling something more is involved than camera shyness. From my own experience back in the depression, I suspect some of these kids are aware of the charity involved and they resent having their pride crushed in public. They also run the risk of humiliating comments from their classmates.

Surely there are ways to protect these kids without inhibiting news coverage. Why couldn't they show the small feet with new shoes and not show the youngsters' faces?

If you print my letter I will consider it my Christmas present to the under-privileged children in our community. I will also donate the price of a pair of new shoes for one of the kids. — PORTLAND, OREGON

Dear Portland: Here's your letter and my thanks to you for writing it. Let us hope the TV director follows your suggestion. It's a good one.

Confidential to Heart Full Of Regret: You should have stayed with him until he "regained his strength." He said he was tired, not dead. Ask for another chance and I hope you get it.

Nurses Come Back

TORONTO (CP) — A six week refresher course, designed to return 600 non-working nurses to their profession, is being conducted in Toronto by the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

Margaret Peart, director of the courses and former director of nursing at Doctor's Hospital, said in an interview that 27 women — mostly in their 30s and 40s — are taking the first of a series of courses.

This is the first time the association has given refresher courses for nurses. More than 1,300 registered nurses replied to 19,000 letters sent out to find out who was interested in taking the course. Many applicants stated their greatest problem in returning to work was getting baby care facilities and the fact that such expenses could not be deducted from their income tax.

A second course starts Jan. 9 and additional lectures, films and on-the-job training will be offered on weekends and at nights.

The nurses pay $25 each, the balance being paid by the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Honeymoon at Harrison

Following their wedding in St. Michael's and All Angels Church Mr. and Mrs. Peter McGregor Brown left on a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs. The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver. The bride, the former Karen Penny Clark, wore a street-length dress of white lace over satin for the service. It was fashioned with a high neckline edged in scalloped and angel sleeves, with scalloped trimming the hemline. Her mantilla veil was edged with matching lace, and misted to her shoulders.

She wore the groom's gift of pearl earrings as a jewelry accent and carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. White chrysanthemums and red carnations decorated the church. Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Clark of Sidney, B.C. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bruce Brown of Quilich Beach. Mr. Clark gave his daughter in marriage. Miss Marilyn Clark was maid of honor for her sister, wearing a red velvet gown styled on empire lines with a matching headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and red sweetheart roses.

Pretty Pamela Donaldson was flower girl for her cousin, wearing a gown of white lace and red velvet. She carried a miniature colonial bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

At the reception following in the Airport Travelodge, Sidney, the red and white color theme was continued in the floral decorations. The wedding cake had been made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. W. P. Hocking. Robert Sinclair proposed the toast to the bride.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all. Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. This is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin. ... Lila Hamilton

Gold Wig for Christmas: $35,000

By SALLY RYAN
NEW YORK (AP) — It is right there in the Neiman-Marcus Christmas catalogue — a wig spun of 24-carat gold. For $35,000, some affluent Santa Claus can make his girl a golden cherub.

It may be the wiggliest Christmas in history.

The Dallas department store even has wigs for men. They come in blonde or brown — human hair — bountifully unbarbered and priced at $45. Even the kiddies may have a hairy Christmas.

F. A. O. Schwarz, the toy chain, is sending out 900,000 Christmas catalogues — 100,000 more than last year — offering Pamela and Party Kit, for $25. Pamela is a dainty ballerina who keeps up with world of fashion by changing her wig. Included are blonde and brunette wigs, which transform her appearance for each party.

Neiman-Marcus has a thing about equality of the sexes. Each year its catalogue features his and her junks, his and her bath tubs.

This year's bit of togetherness is a matched pair of desert plutocrats, his and her carrels "for people who have been promising themselves to slow down." The store will fly a pair of the first Christmas beasts to your private oasis for $4,125.

There may be some smaller animals under the Christmas tree, too.

Tiffany and Co., the Fifth Avenue jeweller, has a zooful of baubles — a dancing dragon of diamonds, $9,000, an emerald-eyed sea serpent, $10,700, a dog bracelet, $10,000, and a diamond-clawed alligator pin, $7,200.

They'd all fit in a golden basket — Tiffany's vermeil berry basket, $280.

J. C. Penney Co. department stores feature the newest member of Santa's menagerie since Rudolph — Santa Mouse. There are Santa Mouse sleepers, $2.96, Santa Mouse gowns, $2.96, Santa Mouse story books, 94 cents, Santa Mouse records, 88 cents and Santa Mouse his and her robes, $3.95, size 1 to 4.

In the doll department, there are L'il Miss Fussy who kicks and cries until you change her diaper and Baby's Hungry, who rolls her eyes and chews, $10.88 apiece.

There even is an atomic energy lab at Schwarz at $8.95.

Cheri

Saanich Girl Missing

Saanich police are seeking the whereabouts of 17-year-old Cheri Robinson, 5648 Wallace Drive, who has been missing since Thursday when she was last seen near the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

She has long dark hair, brown eyes, a light olive complexion, and weighs about 120 pounds. When last seen she was wearing a London-cut two-piece suit and 11-inch black boots, and was carrying a brown Mexican tote bag.

Anyone having information has been asked to telephone Saanich police at 388-4321.

Victoria Men Remanded

CALGARY (CP)—Three Victoria men, charged with robbery in connection with a car theft, have been remanded without plea to Dec. 4 in court here. Barry Cragg, 23, Wesley Braham, 19, and Melvin Cardy, 18, were charged with robbing a Calgary man of his $4,000 car Nov. 19.

Bridge Results

Winners of a consolation charity game held by the Victoria unit of the American Bridge League: 1. Margaret Kirby and Denise McGill, 2. Peter Verold and Mike Champion, 3. Duncan Smith and Brian Larky, 4. Betty and Chuck Miller, 5. Joe Joan Smith and Cam Wallace, Frances Newall and Ken Bilton.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Scientific observers said Monday the Soviet Union apparently is planning to test a new type of giant rocket that may be even bigger than America's gigantic Saturn 5.

The Soviets announced Monday they will carry out their fourth series of test firing this year into the Pacific Ocean near American-owned Midway Island.

The official announcement of the tests did not specify which rockets will be fired.

Up to now, however, the Soviets have given no indication that they have solved the central problem of developing a rocket big enough not only to take men to the moon but to pack enough fuel for the voyage home.

TARGET AREAS

Monday's announcement marked the first time the Soviets have run four test series in one year. Earlier tests were run in June, September and October. All ended "successfully," official announcements said.

Tass said there will be two target areas, about 300 miles northwest and south of Midway Island. It warned shipping to stay clear of the 80-mile-wide bullseyes from next Tuesday until Dec. 30.

BOOSTER POWER

The observers said the Soviets may be wishing to prove the reliability, power and guidance systems of huge rockets that may one day carry men to the moon and back.

The Saturn 5 made its maiden flight Nov. 17 and its success appeared to put the United States ahead in the race to the moon.

But James Webb, administrator of the national aeronautics and space administration, said the Soviets, who always have led the United States in booster rocket power, "are building a rocket bigger than the Saturn 5."

The Russians have scored several successes in soft landings on the moon, orbital missions around the moon and photography of the lunar surface.

In addition, they have achieved an automatic docking of two unmanned satellites—the first and crucial step toward building the kind of space platform from which future Russian moon rockets will be launched.

Weir Sworn In as Manitoba Chief

WINNIPEG (CP)—Walter Weir was sworn in as premier of Manitoba Monday afternoon along with his cabinet to which he added one new member.

Mr. Weir, 38-year-old former undertaker, won the Manitoba Progressive Conservative leadership Saturday on the third ballot over three cabinet colleagues. He succeeds Duff Roblin who plans to enter federal politics.

The addition to the cabinet that he inherited along with the premiership—it resigned and was reappointed by Lt.-Gov. R. S. Bowles—was Donald W. Creik, 36-year-old professional engineer and member for St. Vital.

He takes the job of mines and natural resources which was held by Provincial Treasurer

Gurney Evans in the previous administration.

Only other cabinet change was the transfer of the highways portfolio, on an interim basis, to Harry J. Enns, 36, minister of agriculture. Mr. Weir was highways minister in the Roblin government.

Mr. Weir told a press conference that dividing the treasury and mines and natural resources portfolios shows his concern about the current tax situation in the province. He said the position of provincial treasurer is a full-time job.

LOAD HEAVY

The new premier conceded he was giving Mr. Enns a heavy load but said a precedent had been set by a previous administration.

Mr. Weir told reporters he hoped the fact that there were few cabinet changes indicated the confidence he felt for the members who had served under Mr. Roblin.

By their acceptance of the appointments, Mr. Weir said he hoped the cabinet members were showing a return of the same confidence.

He said he would be going to the Confederation of Tomorrow conference in Toronto today where he hopes to meet other Canadian premiers. He said he would "play it by ear" and did not know whether he would speak during the conference. Mr. Evans is the Manitoba government's official representative to the conference.

Inflammable Toy Reminder Issued

By GEORGE INGLIS

Greater Victoria parents should be on the alert again this Christmas to guard against the possibility of inflammable dolls or other toys marring a merry Christmas.

A spokesman for the B.C. fire marshal's office in Vancouver told the Colonist Monday, "The best precaution against accidents is for parents to scrutinize the dolls and other toys bought for their children and decide whether there is any danger."

Ontario fire marshal's research team said recently.

The B.C. fire marshal's office man, said no plans have been made to issue special warnings, although mention of the subject would be made in the department's fire service news.

Saanich Fire Chief Joe Sutherland said he felt the doll danger had been overplayed last year.

"We found it difficult to ignite one with the flame of a match, and I certainly don't think one would explode near a fireplace, as some stories said last year."

Oak Bay Fire Chief W. T. Pearson seemed to favor this theory, saying he felt there were lots more dangerous things around.

Bogus Bills In City

City police warned Monday that bogus $20 bills are circulating in Victoria, with 10 bad notes reported Monday.

The notes all carry the number T/E 3587399. They are described by police as "good prints" but the paper is not as soft as true bills. Apparently the notes were passed in small businesses over the weekend and were brought to police attention by banks.

THEY SHOULD KNOW

However, he added, "They have the laboratory over there (at the fire marshal's office) and they should know."

Chief Sutherland did agree that the celluloid material used in the dolls' faces "has been with us for a long while, and is known to be inflammable."

Both chiefs agreed with the fire marshal's office that parents were the best ones to exercise precautions over the toys purchased for their children.

We tried to ignore Double Distilled whisky

but it wouldn't go away

For over 63 years our distillery has produced many fine whiskies... for all parts of Canada and 116 other countries. So why produce one whisky just for British Columbia? That's what we asked ourselves. So we decided to let Double Distilled die. Stop promoting it, we reasoned, and it will disappear. Then replace it with a national brand. Logical. But it didn't work that way. Even though we tried to ignore Double Distilled, we found that several thousand British Columbians were still demanding it. Now this is popularity you can't ignore, so we're going to make the most of it. From now on you'll be hearing about the unsurpassed quality and value of British Columbia's own whisky — B.C. DOUBLE DISTILLED.

Clay Pots Ancient

By M. V. CHESNUT

The green-thumbed members of the human race, both men and women, have been growing plants in baked clay pots for something over 3,000 years.

In fact, clay pots were used to hold ornamental plants in ancient Egypt, for the decoration of the temples for special feasts and ceremonies, and in all that time, the materials from which the pots were made have changed very little.

The common red earthenware pot now in use has been reduced to such simplicity in design that few gardeners realize the shape and construction is not a matter of happenstance, but over hundreds of years of trial and error, it has been evolved for sheer utility.

The tapering of the sides, for instance, is carefully planned so the pots can be "nested" for easy storage and transport, and for the easy ejection of the plant when this becomes necessary.

It is a delight to see the ease and skill with which a professional gardener will "knock" a plant out of its pot just to take a quick glance at the health of its roots, then settle the root ball back in place with a thump on the potting bench.

This is a technique every novice should learn, for there is no better way to check up on your watering than to make a peripatetic examination of the soil in the bottom of the pot.

The trick is simple enough: Just turn the potted plant upside down, holding the soil ball in place with the outstretched fingers of the left hand.

Then rap the edge of the pot smartly against the edge of the bench, and the soil ball should slide out into your left hand with no damage or disturbance to the roots.

The tapered sides of the clay pot serve another purpose too. This design allows a freer movement of air between the pots when a number of plants are standing close together, and this air circulation can be important.

Moisture seeps through the porous sides of the pot, and the moving air evaporates this moisture, thereby keeping the plant roots much cooler than those in plastic or glazed containers.

To be fully effective, though, the pot must be kept porous and not painted over, nor pretreated with koi, or allowed to become covered with slime or mould on the outside.

Clay pots should really be scrubbed once or twice a year in order to function properly, for pots which are very dirty and saturated with the waste products from the plant roots can become toxic to the delicate root hairs.

These acid excretions from the roots are so strong they have been known to etch a design on polished marble!

Hot soapy water and a stiff brush are sufficient for removing surface dirt, but a preliminary soaking for a few hours will loosen the dirt and dissolve most of the root acids and soluble salts in the pores.

A little household bleach in the soaking water will help get rid of slime or mould coating the walls.

Never soak the pots longer than overnight, though — after all, they are only made of baked earth, and may disintegrate.

New clay pots should never be used for potting until they have been soaked for a couple of hours. This soaking not only cleanses the pores of any caustic salts left after the baking process, but allows the baked clay to become saturated.

If a plant is potted in a new, dry pot straight from the kiln, the thirsty pores will suck up moisture from the soil like blotting paper.

Only too often, too, the soil ball will shrink away from the sides of the pot, leaving a crack; when you water your plants, the moisture runs through this crack and away without ever wetting the mass of roots.

Never nest more than half a dozen clay pots within another, for their weight applies pressure on the walls of the lower pots and you will have casualties. Clay pots should be stored either upside down, or on their sides in a spot where they can't roll.

ART BUCHWALD MEETS A Japanese Dove

Selling Cameras Beats War

TOKYO — I had occasion to visit Japan last week, and I am happy to report that Japanese-American relations have never been better.

When Premier Sato was leaving to visit the United States, Tokyo University students tried to stop him from going by demonstrating at the airport. It wasn't that they had anything against Sato's visit to the U.S. They just love their premier so much, they just couldn't stand to say goodbye.

The big issue in Japan vis-a-vis the United States is Okinawa. The Japanese would like the U.S. to return Okinawa to them after all these years.

The United States is willing to do it only if Japan will take South Vietnam at the same time in a package deal. But the Japanese are reluctant to take the U.S. up on it. As one Japanese diplomat put it: "We'd rather commit hara-kiri first."

Another sore point of Japanese-American relations is that the United States wants Japan to pay more of its own money for its defence and also to do more to reform the future.

The Japanese refuse to listen, and one Tokyo taxi driver high in government circles told me why.

He said, "Japanese no want to rearm!"

"Why not?" I asked him.

"We remember Pearl Harbor," I protested. "It's about time the Japanese built up their own defence system."

"Ah-so. You crazy or something?" he said. "We promised General MacArthur we would be peace-loving people. In 1945 we vowed death to the Imperialist military clique, and a plague on all war."

"But the promises MacArthur exacted from you in 1945 is one thing, and what we want you to do now is another. Aren't you worried about the yellow peril at all?"

"Not much," he admitted. "What yellow peril are you talking about?"

"The billions of Chinese armed with nuclear weapons ready to swoop down on all of Southeast Asia."

"Oh, that yellow peril. Frankly, that's not our problem. The United States taught us that anybody that goes to war is crazy. Take a look at Hiroshima and Nagasaki if you don't believe me."

"But that was a bad war."

"Why was it a bad war?" he asked.

"Because you were the enemy. Now that you're our allies we have no objection to your building up a strong military complex to defend yourselves. There are good wars and bad wars. If you were on our side, you'd be involved in a good war."

"No thank you, venerable taxi rider. Imperial military clique got us into too much trouble last time. Besides, how do you know that if we rearm and get strong military, we won't bomb Pearl Harbor again?"

"You'd have to promise not to."

"We did the last time, but that didn't stop us from doing it."

"If there's anything I hate," I said angrily, "it's a Japanese dove."

"So sorry, but the only thing Japanese people learned from the last war is that there is more money to be made in cameras."

"But how are you going to contain China with cameras?"

"That's YOUR problem. After all, you won the war, so you have to take care of us."

"Well, if you want to know the truth," I said, "I'm sorry we beat you in the war."

"You should have thought of that before."

Marlene Talks to SHEILAH GRAHAM

Dietrich—On Youth

NEW YORK (NANA) — When Marlene Dietrich decided she would not, after all, extend her one-woman show on Broadway, she had a reason. She just didn't like New York. "It has become too loud and dirty. I keep cleaning all the time, and by the time I'm finished everything is dirty all over again."

Before leaving for Europe, Israel and Australia, I thought it might be interesting for Marlene to tell my daughter Wendy, who is studying for Ph.D. what it was like to be a girl in her day, compared to what is going on now. "Was New York always like this?" my daughter asked the legendary star. "Well," she replied, pointing skywards, "There was always dirt from the top. But this constant tearing up of the streets and pavements is something new. It's like living in a bombed country."

Dietrich on stage is a poem of glamour, and my daughter asked her what she thought of the current fancy of young men and women dressing identically. "They don't know what they want to achieve," Marlene replied. "I'm sure it's a passing fashion, without deeper meaning, simply something to get attention." Wendy wondered if there was any similarity with the girls who wear pants today and the slacks vogue of the '30s which Marlene initiated. "I wore slacks," she replied, "because I lived in California where people dress informally and slacks are comfortable."

Marlene revealed that she feels very much in the swing of things today. "I attract young people to my show, not because they have seen my old movies on television, but because they feel I understand them and they like what I stand for."

"Are the problems of youth today worse than in your day?" Wendy asked. "Most young people have always considered themselves misunderstood," mused Marlene. "Today they just get more publicity because there is greater mass communication. Still, the situation today seems more difficult than it has ever been in the past. If young people can find no excitement in life, without drugs, it's very bad. There's too much looking for thrills. Life is not made up of thrills. It's a difficult business. One must have an unshakable core of personal values."

"This frenzied search for kicks is more harmful to women than men. Men can recover, but women are more emotional. When their emotions are stretched to a certain point, they wear out and can't rebound. Today's parents are scared stiff about their children. Our parents didn't feel guilty when we rebelled. Today, when the children start taking drugs, the parents blame themselves. They feel they have done something terrible. I wouldn't want to be the mother of young people today for anything in the world. How can you control the situation?"

Marlene is the mother of daughter Maria who married years ago and is the mother of four boys.

closer you come to the earth, the less rebellion there is because nobody rebels against Nature. It is worse for the youth of North America because young people are spoiled by getting so much, so easily. In Europe there isn't such enormous affluence, and a French girl still has to be in at 10 o'clock."

Britt Ekland, starring here in The Night They Raided Minsky's, says it's just as well that her husband Peter Sellers had to make a picture in Hollywood. "Peter never watches me work anyway," said Britt, "which is just as well because this way he never has anything to criticize." Criticism never sets well with a wife, either in the kitchen or in a career.

Carolyn Jones will have her own cheering section when she opens at the Huntington Hartford theatre in Hollywood, Dec. 4. Her long-time beau, Budd Moss, is picking up the tab for 40 seats. And you can bet that Carol's ex-husband Aaron Spelling will reserve at least as many. It's a kind of game with these three which Noel Coward wrote about in Design for Living.

Stanfield: No Vote In 1968

REGINA (CP) — National Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Monday the federal Liberal government will not call a 1968 election if it can avoid it.

"It's pretty clear they have a poor standing in the country at the moment," Stanfield said in an interview before addressing a service club luncheon. "They'll put it off as long as they can."

If there is an election, he said, the Conservatives will do very well indeed because the people no longer have confidence in the government.

COMPLACENT
 He charged the Liberals with being complacent far too long over the dangers of inflation, saying they had not convinced the people of Canada they are trying to cut spending.

Referring to a suggestion that the federal medical care scheme should be postponed, Stanfield said Ottawa can't very well encourage the provinces to start a new program and at the same time urge spending restraint.

OBSERVERS
 Commenting on the Confederation for Tomorrow conference which began Monday in Toronto, he said it was not an attempt to upstage the federal government, but he felt Ottawa should have sent "political observers" as well as government observers.

Stanfield said he backed such conferences which should "throw some light" on the workings of Confederation.

Names in the News West Protests Wine Incident

LONDON — Britain and the U.S. have sent stiff protests to Russia over an incident involving two western military attaches visiting an experimental winemaking farm Nov. 17 near Kiev.

Brig. C. A. Harper of Britain and Col. William Spahr of the U.S. became ill after sampling wines, cherries and foods which the western nations said may have been doctored. They went back to their hotel rooms, where a group of five or six men broke in, held the attaches down, removed their money belts and damaged the room. The attaches have since returned to Moscow.

OTTAWA — The Canadian government protested to Burma over the case of Montreal residents Bernard Pineault and Guy Lalonde, both 22, who have been held in a Rangoon jail since June in connection with the importing of some watches and knives.

NEW YORK — Film star Ulma Merrill, heiress to the Post cereal fortune, was dropped from the social register following her divorce and remarriage to actor Cliff Robertson.

NEW YORK — Marshall McLuhan, 56, internationally known Canadian communications theorist, successfully underwent an operation to remove a benign growth from his head. His condition following the long operation remains satisfactory.

BASSETTERE, St. Kitts — Opposition leader William Herbert was acquitted of conspiring to overthrow by force the government of the Caribbean associated state of St. Kitts, Nevis-Anguilla. He was also cleared of being an accessory before the fact and six of his followers were acquitted of conspiracy in an armed attack on the Basseterre police station last June. The attack was allegedly made by supporters of secession for Anguilla.

LONDON — Agriculture Minister Fred Peart said he is seriously considering the possibility of banning meat imports from Argentina as a result of an epidemic of hoof-and-mouth disease rampaging through English and Welsh farms.

NEW WESTMINSTER — Derek Campbell, 12, saved the lives of two nine-year-old girls when he dug into a collapsed clay tunnel with his bare hands. The boy was nearby when Karen Blackstone and Jeanne Fayer were trapped as the tunnel, dug into the bank by other children, collapsed on them.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Major Albert Warner, one of four brothers who parlayed a 100-chair nickelodeon into a multi-million dollar film dynasty, died at 84. The death leaves Jack as the only surviving Warner brother.

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefits may not be increased this year because of the slow pace of the Commons in dealing with legislation, Labor Minister Nicholson suggested.

He was replying to Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), who asked in the House whether legislation to raise ceilings and increase benefits is coming.

"Mr. Nicholson said he hoped it would receive passage this year but the progress of the Commons in dealing with the government's legislative timetable made this doubtful.

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Cadieux told the Commons Canada has had no request to supply additional troops to the United Nations command in Cyprus.

OTTAWA (CP) — Four transport department representatives are meeting U.S. officials this week to discuss standardizing regulations governing offshore drilling rigs.

The Canadians will meet representatives of the U.S. Coast Guard and the U.S. Corps of Engineers to discuss communications systems safety devices, fog alarms used on drilling rigs and the direction of marine traffic in areas where rigs are operating.

ILLUSION OF POWER
 Turner argued that the amendment gave only the illusion of investigative power, since it did not spell out terms of reference and subsidiary powers such as the right to call witnesses. Moreover, it provided for no limits necessary to protect civil rights.

Investigative power was provided for in other acts anyway, he said. The consumers bill sought only to co-ordinate government powers in the field into one department.

Turner said a prices review board might result in price increases by allowing producers to justify them on the basis of cost increases, something that wasn't always easy to do now.

Such a board would be unconstitutional if it tried to control prices and as a result would be toothless, he added.

OTTAWA (CP) — A suggestion that the federal government make a special grant to help Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger in his new work among lepers in Africa was rejected.

Drill Rig Rules Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — Four transport department representatives are meeting U.S. officials this week to discuss standardizing regulations governing offshore drilling rigs.

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefits may not be increased this year because of the slow pace of the Commons in dealing with legislation, Labor Minister Nicholson suggested.

He was replying to Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), who asked in the House whether legislation to raise ceilings and increase benefits is coming.

"Mr. Nicholson said he hoped it would receive passage this year but the progress of the Commons in dealing with the government's legislative timetable made this doubtful.

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Cadieux told the Commons Canada has had no request to supply additional troops to the United Nations command in Cyprus.

OTTAWA (CP) — Four transport department representatives are meeting U.S. officials this week to discuss standardizing regulations governing offshore drilling rigs.

The Canadians will meet representatives of the U.S. Coast Guard and the U.S. Corps of Engineers to discuss communications systems safety devices, fog alarms used on drilling rigs and the direction of marine traffic in areas where rigs are operating.

ILLUSION OF POWER
 Turner argued that the amendment gave only the illusion of investigative power, since it did not spell out terms of reference and subsidiary powers such as the right to call witnesses. Moreover, it provided for no limits necessary to protect civil rights.

Investigative power was provided for in other acts anyway, he said. The consumers bill sought only to co-ordinate government powers in the field into one department.

Turner said a prices review board might result in price increases by allowing producers to justify them on the basis of cost increases, something that wasn't always easy to do now.

Such a board would be unconstitutional if it tried to control prices and as a result would be toothless, he added.

OTTAWA (CP) — A suggestion that the federal government make a special grant to help Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger in his new work among lepers in Africa was rejected.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

On many deals, the art lies not in knowing what to do, but in determining the correct order in which to do it. The Dutch declarer on this deal from the 1967 European Championship executed two very simple plays in the wrong order.

Dummy and East played low to the opening diamond lead, and declarer won the queen.
When H o l l a n d played France in the 20-trump round-robin for the European title, the Dutch South elected to play a heart to dummy's queen at the second trick. Gerard Desrouseaux, Paris bridge teacher who held the East cards, and whose team will be in the 1969 World Championship, did not let this piece of faulty timing go unpunished. He won the heart king and made the fine return of a heart.

He made certain he would not make a third heart trick.
Declarer could not draw trumps and remain on the board, and could not make his contract.

The correct sequence of play is to draw trumps after winning the first diamond. Nothing can then prevent declarer from collecting six spade tricks, two hearts and two diamonds.

Demands Threaten Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Special status for any minority group is to be avoided if national unity in Canada is to be strengthened, western leaders stressed Monday at the Confederation of Tomorrow conference.

Premiers Manning of Alberta and Thatcher of Saskatchewan along with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, head of the B.C. delegation, voiced opposition to special privileges for any group or province.

Manning, an original member of North America's first Social Credit administration and dean of Canada's premiers, told an afternoon session he did not believe Confederation was an attempt to entrench the minority rights of French-Canadians or any minority group.

Thatcher warned that increasing economic demands by Quebec could "weaken our Confederation or even destroy it."

Bonner, who said it is more important to devise an amending formula than to rewrite the constitution, argued for acceptance of a Canada, in which no language group would have special rights.

Provincial Treasurer Gurney Evans of Manitoba did not comment in opening remarks on the status of minority groups but said provinces cannot decide on key matters affecting Canada's future without federal participation.

Premier Bennett of B.C. did not attend.

Both Manning and Bonner did not believe rewriting the Canadian constitution is necessary. Bonner said it is more flexible than many believe and "no constitutional document is ever perfect."

AMENDING FORMULA

"The problem is not what to change. A more important question is how to change it."

Attempts had been made without success to find an agreeable amending formula and to make Canadians masters of their own constitution.

If neither of these much simpler tasks could be achieved "it is difficult to see how we can expect to start from scratch in writing a new constitution and then make it effective."

THREE PROPOSALS

He listed three things that can help to solve the insecurity about Canada's future.

First it is necessary to spell out the facts with respect to Canada's present national position, removing the ambiguity that now clouds the question.

Second, there is a need to ascertain what are the desires and aspirations of those dissatisfied with Canada today, and thirdly, to uncover what steps are necessary to reconcile the difference between what Canada now is and what Canadians would like it to be.

PRACTICAL ANSWER

Manning said once these three points are settled it will be possible to attempt to resolve the problems facing Canada today in a practical way.

The Alberta premier, who said he doubted whether it is necessary to rewrite the constitution, emphasized he does not believe Confederation was in reality a union of two peoples, nations or cultures.

However, Manning stressed the need to emphasize the value of French language and culture and the desirability of allowing both to play a role in Canada's future.

FIRM BELIEVER

This did not mean French culture, language and order had a constitutional right that other minority groups in Canada do not possess.

"I for one am a very firm believer in the doctrine of variety which means that no two people, cultures or races are alike and this is a desirable thing."

Manning said he was not advocating Canada become a melting pot of nationalities.

"The great secret of Canada's

Moving Plea Made By Johnson

TORONTO (CP) — The great majority of Quebecers want to "live in French," not just speak it at home, and they want to do it within Canada, Premier Daniel Johnson said Monday.

His moving and dramatic appeal concluded the first day of the four-day Confederation of Tomorrow conference organized by Premier John Roberts of Ontario.

Most provinces, and most especially Ontario, were either in favor of constitutional changes to guarantee French language and education right across Canada or said they were willing to consider it.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta said he opposes constitutional change in this field. But his tone was softer than in his recent letter to Prime Minister Pearson on the subject.

Equal Rights

He carefully explained he opposes granting official status to the French language outside Quebec on the grounds that other language groups outside English and French would not have equal rights.

He said he believes in the "doctrine of variety" and not in the "melting-pot philosophy." But entrenching this diversity in the constitution would undermine Canadian unity.

A second main theme of the conference's first day was the desire expressed for equal economic opportunity for all Canadians.

U.S. Culture

Premiers Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland and Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick spoke at length on this theme.

Johnson and Roberts both said their provinces are prepared to play their part in achievement of this principle. Roberts also said the cultural infiltration of the United States must be related just as stoutly as economic infiltration.

Robichaud said there should be a plan — similar to the post-war Marshall or Colombo plans — for economic aid for the underdeveloped parts of Canada.

But it was Johnson who carried the day with his eloquent summing-up of what Quebec wants.

Calm Speech

Speaking calmly and slowly and without rebuking anyone, he said Quebec has become "a sort of ghetto for the French."

A Quebecer wanted to feel he could move to another province and receive promotions in his company without being obliged to educate his children in a language other than French. The same applied in the Armed Forces.

"Some find us bold because we want to live in French," Johnson said.

"But the brutal fact is that the great majority of the people of Quebec are determined to speak French not only at home but to live in French. And they want to do it in Canada."

Big Future

The future of Canada could be tremendous if the country could seize its potential of two cultures to communicate with up to 500,000,000 people in the world in French and English.

Quebec agreed with the principles of Confederation provided it preserved control over everything which affected its social and cultural life.

Most delegates appeared to agree after the first day that there had been a minimum of platitudes and regional bitterness. The regional sparring was good-natured.

Iron Ore

Johnson, for instance, said that on the Quebec side alone of the "disputed boundary of Labrador" there are 4,500,000 tons of open-pit iron ore, which might be the total weight of the Atlantic provinces.

Smallwood asked if there is an unspoken attitude in the big centres of Canada that if people were fools enough to live in the Atlantic provinces, let them take the consequences.

Quebec Parley 'Fascist'

OTTAWA (CP)—Postmaster General Cote said Monday the four-day meeting of the Estates General of French Canada was conducted in a "fascist" manner.

"No one could express a viewpoint contradictory to that of the resolution which was under examination," he said in an interview. "This was truly fascist."

The meeting of the Estates General, attended by Cote, heavily endorsed a resolution demanding the right to self-determination for "The French Canadian nation" whose national territory was defined as Quebec province.

Cote said all resolutions favoring federalism were suppressed by a preparatory group. The resolutions passed by the group were all adopted without amendment by the general assembly of the Estates General, a privately-organized forum for constitutional change which drew French-speaking delegates from every province except Newfoundland.

The minister said he represented "no one but himself" at the meetings which concluded Sunday.

Consequently, he was in no way responsible for the views expressed at the meetings.

The Incredible Hippy Murder Case

It is the true story of how, in just a matter of weeks, a nice 18-year-old girl from a fine family and with extraordinary advantages, became addicted to a hippie life of psychedelic drugs — and ended up raped and murdered, her head shattered by bricks and her body stretched out on a grimy boiler room floor. This is "must" reading for both parents and youth in a day when family ties are threatened and teen-agers are tempted by a world of fantasy in which they may too easily lose their way. Be sure to read this remarkable article in December Reader's Digest. On sale now.

New Party In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec official Gazette Monday announced the government has issued a permit for the formation of a new political party known as Le Parti Democratique du Quebec.

The announcement said the permit for the party, with headquarters in Lafecche, Que., was issued to Jean-Guy Pelouquin and Georges Whissell, both of Lafecche, and to Georges Pelouquin of the Montreal suburb of Jacques Cartier.

Employment insurance.

We've been paying employment insurance for years by gathering seeds to plant trees and jobs for the future.

Nature will eventually replant a logged forest — but she'll do it in her own sweet time. Even then, she won't necessarily seed the area with the most desirable species. We give her a hand by planting young seedlings to replace the trees we harvest. Sounds easy, but there's a catch. Trees produce good seed crops only once in every three to ten years. So when a bumper cone crop does come along, we gather all we can for planting in the lean years.

1966 was a good year for tree seeds. When the crop was ripe and ready, our forest crews hand-gathered almost four million cones. From these, more than 84 million tiny seeds were extracted, cleaned, tested and cold-stored. As we need them, these seeds will be planted and nursed along into sturdy seedlings. Then we'll replant them where they'll do the most good.

By taking the initiative from nature, we're building a forest that grows more productive each year. In British Columbia, that's employment insurance for everyone.

OF ALL DE GAULLE...

From UPI, CP

Some were vehemently critical, some non-committal and one or two Canadians even were in favor of what Gen. de Gaulle had to say in Paris Monday. But all observers found one thing to admire in the statements — the timing was, as they say, magnifique.

The De Gaulle declarations dropped on the provincial premiers' constitutional conference in Toronto like a bomb. They are bound to be the backdrop to the tabling of the first volume of the long-awaited bilingual and bi-culturalism in the House of Commons this week and they came just as Quebecers took a strong stand for their cause at the Estates General of Canada meeting at the weekend.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin, minding the store for Prime Minister Pearson in London, said the federal government would study de Gaulle's remarks with a view to "the exercise of our rights to non-interference in domestic affairs."

It was the interference angle that drew most of the fire from the assembled premiers in Toronto. One of the most vehement was Louis Robichaud, the French Acadian premier of New Brunswick.

'FIND WAYS'

"If they (France) want to declare war on Canada we'll find ways and means of defending ourselves," no foreign government should interfere in the domestic affairs of our country."

Quebec's Premier Johnson left the conference and brushed through a large group of newsmen, saying, "I have absolutely no comment now," before joining advisers in a separate room.

NOT HELPFUL

Premier Campbell of Prince Edward Island said that comments of outsiders are not particularly helpful at this time. Alberta's Ernest Manning said de Gaulle's statements were "gratuitous and uncalled for."

In Victoria, Premier Bennett, who sent Robert Bonner as B.C.'s delegate to the Toronto conference, only laughed and shrugged. The premier told reporters, "Just say I laughed and laughed."

'OVERGROWN NOSE'

Not so good-humored was B.C.'s Highways Minister Gagliardi who said "de Gaulle should keep that big overgrown nose out of Canada's business."

"France for the French, Canada for Canadians," said Saatchi and the Islands MLA John Tisdale. "To incite what amounts to a rebellion in another nation borders on infraction."

'Radical Change Needed'

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle, in a wide-ranging press conference Monday, virtually closed the door on British entry into the European Common Market.

De Gaulle said Britain still isn't ready to join Common Market even though the British government has taken steps for financial order — a reference to the recent 14.3-per-cent devaluation of the pound.

In London, British officials indicated de Gaulle's criticism would not lead to withdrawal of the British application for membership.

On Britain's immediate entry into the Common Market, de Gaulle said: "... As sweet as dreams are, realities are there."

Ottawa Blamed

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle of France called Monday for transformation of Canada's political system to project Quebec province "to the level of a sovereign state with mastery of its national existence."

"Of course, this state of Quebec, freely and in equality, must work out with the rest of Canada the details of their co-operation... and also to face up to the United States invasion," de Gaulle told a news conference.

He charged the Ottawa government with putting French-speaking Canadians "in a position of inferiority."

Holding forth flamboyantly before about 1,000 reporters from around the world, de Gaulle said there is another condition for the solution of "these great problems" in Canada.

"That is the French community on both sides of the Atlantic should organize itself."

Give Stronger Impulse

"In this respect, things are well under way and the forthcoming meeting, we hope, of the Quebec government and the French republic in Paris should give yet a stronger impulse to this great French work, essential to our century."

Also needed for this work were "all the French of Canada who do not reside in Quebec."

"I think in particular of these 250,000 Acadians in New Brunswick who, too, have kept for France — in language and spirit — a very moving fidelity."

De Gaulle waved his arms at times as he told the reporters in rousing terms of his triumphant procession from Quebec City to Montreal in July.

He referred to his Montreal shout of "Vive le Quebec libre" — a "free Quebec" slogan used by separatists in the province. It sparked an uproar which caused the French president to cut short his Canadian visit without going to Ottawa.

In Canada's biggest city, Montreal, "the unfurling of the liberating passion was such that France had the sacred duty to reply solemnly."

Summed Up All My Thought

"That's what I did, I summed up all my thought in crying, 'Vive le Quebec libre!'"

De Gaulle charged that "Anglo-Saxon preponderance" in Canada combined with the "activity, called federal but obviously partial of the Canadian government at Ottawa" to produce an increasingly inferior position for "the French" and expose to "growing danger their language, substance and character."

But despite all, there had been a sweeping renewal among "the French people across the Atlantic."

The French president consistently referred to French-speaking Canadians as simply "French."

In view of this renewal, said de Gaulle, he had been invited to Quebec by Premier Johnson.

"That Quebec should be free... was the irreversible situation demonstrated and accelerated by the public spirit during my trip."

'Return To Gold'

PARIS (UPI) — The week-long gold-buying rampage, with its threats to the U.S. dollar, showed signs of waning in London and Zurich Monday but hit a frantic new high here.

At the same time President de Gaulle denied any French responsibility for the run on gold, and launched a bitter attack against the dollar in a news conference.

He repeated earlier demands for a return to an international gold standard — something the U.S. has repeatedly rejected.

FINANCIAL 'WAR'

His attack was regarded as close to a declaration of financial "war" against the U.S. and Britain.

Gold dealers said it would not be known until markets reopen today whether de Gaulle's attack would touch off a hectic new gold-buying spree.

McNamara Going

Bank to Choose Defence Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara will be selected as president of the World Bank on Wednesday, it was learned Monday night.

McNamara, U.S. defence chief since 1961, will resign from President Johnson's cabinet to take the $40,000-a-year tax-free post, succeeding George Woods.

The selection of McNamara will be formally accomplished when the board of directors of the international lending organization meets Wednesday.

By custom, the United States nominates a candidate for president of the World Bank. The role goes to the United States because it is the largest single financial contributor to the bank.

McNamara's nomination was forwarded to the bank last week. It was understood President Johnson concurred in the move.

The selection of McNamara for the World Bank job had been reported earlier by the Washington Post and the New York Times.

Victoria's Gesture Made It Real Christmas

For a week before Christmas last year, a small, neat woman appeared in the toy store each day, to check on the gifts she had laid away for her four young children.

Half of her mind was with one of the children, also in hospital, but due home from the warm, decorated ward to share a more sombre day with the rest of the family.

"When I got the $500 Fund cheque in the mail just before Christmas, it was a real Godsend," she said.

"That $30 meant toys, turkey and all the trimmings — we were even able to get a

With a month to go in the annual appeal by the Colonist, Victorians poured nearly $300 into the fund Monday, to assure each recipient at least $3.46 to spend on extras.

Freedom Political Poison?

OTTAWA (CP) — Are honors from Britain a signal of doom for Canadian prime ministers?

John Diefenbaker didn't say this in so many words, but he noted these facts in an interview Monday:

As prime minister in 1955, Louis St. Laurent received the freedom of the City of London, and was defeated in the general election of 1956.

As prime minister in 1963, Diefenbaker himself received the freedom of the City of London in February, and was defeated in the general election in April.

Prime Minister Pearson received the freedom of the City of London Monday.

"Further observation on my part is unnecessary," Diefenbaker said.

'It's Time to Call Alaska's Bluff'

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett kept silent Monday on a proposal for an all-American ferry route between Alaska and Seattle, but at least one B.C. minister suggested that now might be the time to call Governor Walter Hickel's bluff.

The present impasse was precipitated last week when Mr. Bennett announced that the Queen of Prince Rupert would not be put back into the Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert service until next April 1.

The $6,500,000 flagship of the B.C. ferry fleet has been undergoing extensive repairs at a North Vancouver shipyard since she was heavily damaged on a rock near Alert Bay last Aug. 11.

'FULL OF GOODWILL'

When the premier was asked Monday to comment on a formal request by the governor for permission to operate Alaskan state ferries from the present southern terminal at Prince Rupert to Seattle, Mr. Bennett said:

"I've no comment to make. Christmas is coming and I'm full of goodwill."

Earlier, however, the premier

Hickel for a temporary service

ferries at Prince Rupert. This resulted in Alaska's formal request for the U.S. Coast Guard to declare the waters of the inside passage "bays and sounds" which would enable state ferries to provide their own link to Seattle.

COSTLY DUPLICATION

Trade Minister Ralph Lottmark said Monday the proposed all-American ferry route would be a costly duplication of the B.C. service, and would also undoubtedly cut into revenues of the Queen of Prince Rupert.

He was asked whether in the circumstances he would recommend B.C. chartering a CPR vessel laid up for the winter months in Victoria to provide temporary service, as requested by Alaska.

UP TO ALASKA

"Do you play poker?" Mr. Lottmark asked newsmen. "I think it's time we checked" — waited for someone else to act. His remark was interpreted as meaning the next move is up to Alaska and there is at least some official thinking that Governor Hickel may be bluffing when he talks about providing an inter-state ferry connection in competition with B.C.

Some officials here feel it would be too expensive for Alaska to set up an adequate inter-state service, and argue that the disruption of present services between points within the state would be great while new ships were built, even if cost was not the over-riding factor.

U.S. REGISTRY

Earlier this year Mr. Lottmark had talks with Alaska representatives on the possibility of amending the protective U.S. Jones Act. This, proponents claim, would allow the Queen of Prince Rupert to expand its traffic by carrying commercial trucks bound from other U.S. points to Alaska. (The U.S. law requires that all goods carried between American ports be in ships of U.S. registry.)

B.C. ferry officials seemed less than enthusiastic at the time because they claimed that in tourist season there would be no space on the ferry for big trailer trucks. Even on the twice-weekly winter service, a large share of business was non-commercial.

There is another excellent reason for B.C. not to support an easing of the Jones Act, government spokesmen said. That is, the law now requires Oregon and Washington timber interests shipping to the eastern U.S. seaboard to use American ships.

KEY ADVANTAGE

B.C. lumber exporters, using cheaper foreign vessels, thus gain a competitive advantage in one of the province's most important markets abroad.

In Juneau, Alaska, the 17th U.S. Coast Guard district said Monday it had asked for an early decision from Washington, D.C., on Governor Hickel's application.

Rear Admiral Joseph R. Sullivan, district commander, said the state's request was forwarded Saturday to Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, along with a request that a decision be made quickly.

tion of the United Nations' charter."

Back in Toronto, Saskatchewan Premier Thatcher, had little to say, other than "just that I wish Gen. de Gaulle would mind his own business."

Premier Roberts of Ontario said: "I don't intend being drawn into an international debate with Gen. de Gaulle. All I can say is I don't agree with him."

Newfoundland's Joey Smallwood:

"Well, who takes the general seriously anymore?"

GENERAL ACCLAIMED

Separatist leader Pierre Bourgault, on a two week visit to Paris to promote separatism, acclaimed de Gaulle for "marking a new point in the escalation in favor of an independent Quebec."

He said that as a result of the latest remarks, nobody would be able to say anymore that the famous "long live free Quebec" call in Montreal last July "had been made under the stress of emotion."

MP'S WISH

Two MPs had something to say. In Toronto, conference observer Roger Regimbal of Quebec, appeared distressed.

"The only thing I want to say," Regimbal said, "is that I wish de Gaulle had seen more of Quebec, and found the true temper of the Quebec people," before he went on his "Quebec libre" campaign.

At a speaking engagement in Regina, new Conservative leader Robert Stanfield termed de Gaulle's statement "very unusual for a foreign government."

GREAT MAJORITY

"I am convinced that the great majority of people within Quebec want to remain Canadians, although there are dissatisfactions in Quebec that will require changes."

Stanfield's predecessor in the

Tory hierarchy, John Diefenbaker, speaking in Ottawa, said Pearson must not "pussyfoot again" by reacting mildly to the latest from de Gaulle.

HIS PREDICTION

"I predict then (last July after the Montreal fiasco) that the uncertain and pusillanimous stand taken by the prime minister... would only lead de Gaulle to believe he could say anything and get away with it."

Tory back-bencher Rob Webb

of the Ontario riding of Hastings-Frontenac, asked in the House of Commons whether MacEachen whether "he would confer with his counterpart in France to have the French president committed to an institution."

Speaker Lamoureux hastily cut off Webb from saying anything further. He said Webb should know his words were out of order in the Commons and unparliamentary.

be a central and integral part of a new and united Europe.

It should prevent Europe becoming an isolated third force and, feeling this way, he believed "It is shortsighted and wrong for any European country to oppose or put unnecessary obstacles in the way of Britain playing a full and constructive part, as I am sure it would be, in the evolution of a united Europe."

He praised Britain's leadership in developing an independent Commonwealth. But he pleaded for a stronger Commonwealth, saying that without the good will and support of Britain and other older members "the Commonwealth will not survive."

LOUD APPLAUSE

"If it should fail, let the failure not be through any fault of understanding, patience or effort on our part."

Canada's own problems of federalism and national unity would be solved "by us and not by outside intervention in our domestic affairs," Pearson said. The remarks brought a loud round of applause.

OLD DOCTRINE

As for the North Atlantic alliance, "France, in due course, repudiated the whole idea of collective security, falling back on the old and discredited doctrine of national defence by national action."

While he was in London, Pearson received the freedom of the city.

He held his news conference

Church Moving In One Piece

SAND HILL, Que. (CP) — Because its location made a section of a highway a "veritable death trap" the 80-year-old Anglican church in this Eastern Township community will have to move a tenth of a mile down the road. But it won't be rebuilt — the congregation plans to use engineering genius to move it in one piece to a new foundation.

banks headed by the U.S. kept the lid on gold prices.

In Washington U.S. officials shrugged off de Gaulle's attacks on the country and the dollar as reflecting the frustrations of his declining years.

They said his efforts to rally gold speculators against the value of the dollar were doomed to failure.

WARNING TO U.S.

At his press conference de Gaulle warned that despite its "incredible power" the U.S. dollar faces devaluation unless Washington stops championing the present world monetary system.

British when they first applied in 1963. Membership requires the unanimous approval of all six market nations — France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

In Rome, foreign ministry officials said Monday Italy believes that a decision about a British bid for entry into the European Common Market should be made by all six members and not by the head of one of its states.

They added that Italy will get together immediately with other countries who support the British application to work out a common position towards statements made earlier in the day by de Gaulle.

The press conference — his 16th since he returned to power in 1958 — gave de Gaulle the opportunity to present his first public reaction to Britain's devaluation of the pound sterling Nov. 18. Britain devalued in hopes of strengthening its financial situation.

De Gaulle contended Britain's entry now into the Common Market would wreck the community.

"The present Common Market is incompatible with the British economy the way it is," he said. "A radical transformation is needed for Britain to be able to melt into the Continent."

Nerves, Weight Unaffected By Hysterectomy Itself

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you give me some facts about the results of a hysterectomy such as nervousness, weight gain, etc.? I had a partial hysterectomy (just the uterus) last fall.—Mrs. B.J.D.

It doesn't have any effect on nerves or weight unless you let it.

Like any other surgery, you need time to recuperate from the operation, but it makes no particular change in your life and activities except that pregnancy no longer is possible.

A good deal of folklore has developed concerning hysterectomy, and (understandably) women who have had the operation are likely to blame on it whatever other problems may develop.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently I have seen devices to pierce your ears, small loops with springs on them, and you wear them several days and your ears are pierced. Would you recommend them? How should you care for your ears afterward?—B.A.

Sorry, I can't recommend them because I can't see any way of being positive that infection will not occur. That's why I'm sticking to the same advice on this. Let your doctor do it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a double hernia but they don't protrude too much and don't bother me when I am walking. I am 46 and do not attempt to do any strenuous lifting, but I want to put my mind at rest.

I just can't see having an operation as the condition doesn't appear to bother me that much.—D.S.

If you expect me to put your mind at rest, you've knocked at the wrong door. The risk is that if a hernia does begin to "bother you that much," the hernia or rupture will have become larger and more difficult to repair. Or it may even become strangulated, which means that emergency surgery will be necessary to save your life as well as to relieve the utter agony of that phase of the trouble.

The only sensible advice I can give you is to have your doctor examine you, find out how far each hernia has progressed, and tell you whether to have the surgery now, or whether you can safely wait a little while — with periodic examinations to see how things are doing.

A hernia doesn't get better by itself. All it can do is get worse, and the smartest patient is the one who has the surgical repair done before the damage is too great, and while he is still in good health will tolerate the operation with comparative ease.

Sherlock Still Trying to Tame a Wildcat

PORT ALBERNI — A further meeting is scheduled for Thursday between conciliator Jack Sherlock and officers of Local 1-85 of the IWA in Port Alberni.

The meeting concerns the wildcat strike by almost 1,000 woods workers at three MacMillan Bloedel operations in the area last week.

Walter Allen, president of the IWA local, said the cause of the strike had been identified at a meeting between Labor officials, union officers and company officials.

Workers went back to their jobs in the Sproat Lake Franklin River and Cameron divisions on schedule Monday morning, following a request from the union executive.

NANAIMO — The federal government has approved a grant of $74,000 to Nanaimo Regional Hospital.

The money will be applied to the cost of completing the hospital's sixth floor, providing space for 37 acute-care beds. The federal contribution to new hospital construction is roughly $2,000 per bed. About 38 per cent of the total cost has to be found locally and the remainder comes from the provincial government.

NORTH COWICHAN — "Council showed great co-operation in allowing us to use the basement of the new municipal hall," said president of the Cowichan Judo Club, Max Glezekamp. He said council reacted quickly after the submission was made to North Cowichan Recreation Commission. A total of 14 club members, ranging in age from 10 to 40 will take part in the Vancouver Island judo tournament in Victoria today.

COURTENAY — "The UGN campaign reached 65 per cent of the $36,000 objective for 1967," Chairman Donald D. Gordon announced at a recent general meeting held in the tourist bureau. "I feel we can be pleased at what was accomplished. We had tremendous support."

Pat Bing reported to the meeting of the executive and representatives of nine participating agencies that cash donations total $23,217.15 to Nov. 20. Payroll donations total $5,305 with a further $332 in pledges and $185 in post-dated cheques. Mr. Bing was campaign chairman.

NANAIMO — Piper Park was a victim of theft, over the weekend.

For 10 years a double-action hand pump had stood unmolested, but at last fell victim to either collectors or scavengers. The brass sphere at the top was taken, Jack Parker, president of Nanaimo District Museum Society said, "It's no use to anyone, except as scrap. Please return it, it's of no earthly value, but its irreplaceable as an antique."

He said if the person who took it would return it to the doorstep of the museum, like a founding child, everyone would be happy.

DUNCAN — A chemist was sentenced to 40 days in jail in magistrate's court for his fourth charge of impaired driving. Herman Evert Gibson, 44, pleaded guilty. He was charged Sunday. Police said Gibson had two previous impaired driving convictions in Chemainus, and a third conviction in Duncan.

The most recent of the three previous convictions was in April of this year at Chemainus. Police also stated Gibson had no driver's licence and he was driving while under suspension when stopped by police.

Kushner

tions of selections from Hello Dolly. The orchestra is conducted by Maurice Kushner, and the choir by Ed Gibney. This will be the only production for the balance of the year, but another is scheduled possibly for April.

PORT ALBERNI — Two young hunters made it safely out of the rugged Nitinat area Monday, putting an end to a search started by the Alberni Rescue Squadron and the RCMP. Wayne Norman and Dave Price, both 20, of Victoria became the object of a search when they failed to rendezvous with Price's father as arranged at noon on Sunday.

NANAIMO — The Open Door Society is working here to break down race prejudice, especially in adoption placement of small children. The Nanaimo branch was formed last week. Mrs. Mary Barraclough said "Interest is quite high." She said the society was started in Montreal, and has offices in Vancouver. She said in B.C. 90 per cent of the children needing homes are native Indians.

COBBLE HILL — A Cobble Hill family was left homeless Sunday afternoon, when a house on Fairfield Road was destroyed by fire. Norman Amos, a truck driver employed with a Duncan firm, was painting in the house just before the fire started. His wife and two children were in Duncan.

COURTENAY — A detailed survey of mail calls is expected to be made in the Courtenay area early next year to see whether a door-to-door mail delivery service might be implemented.

Regulations state that not less than 2,000 calls are required before such a delivery system can be introduced. A survey last April showed there were 1,925 calls.

Postmaster Bill Bailey said it was hoped the survey would show that the necessary 2,000 calls now existed.

NANAIMO — Archie Stevenson of Mill Bay, has been named a life member of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association in recognition of 20 years services to the improvement of conditions for dairy farmers. It marks the first time the association has awarded a life membership.

COURTENAY — Executive committee for Co-Val Choristers, local dramatic arts group which has presented many theatrical offerings in Courtenay, was elected at a recent meeting to direct activities of the group for the 1967-68 season.

Duncan Council

Bureau Gets Final Look

DUNCAN — Mayor Jack Dobson said he regretted the forced closure of the tourist bureau, but he didn't see why the city should have to give the full backing to a tourist venture. The office has been operated by the chamber for many years without having ever been closed. The mayor at a special meeting Monday, said "I remember when this was a driving force, and when the chamber did all the digging." A chamber letter stated the tourist office will have to be closed because of the chamber's financial condition.

Cowichan

Indians Blast Ottawa

DUNCAN — Ottawa's inconsistency is blamed by Cowichan Indians for the resignation of their band council Tuesday night.

Secretary Louise Underwood said Friday, "Once again the members of the Cowichan Indian Band are victims of the laws imposed upon them."

Ottawa ruled the Cowichan council illegal.

Chief Dennis Alphonse and his councillors resigned because the department refused approval or delayed many projects.

NEW ELECTION
The council was elected in May, 1966, but shortly after a band member protested because many of the council members had not been seconded at the nomination, as required by the Indian Act.

Miss Underwood said "Because one band member protested the lack of seconders the other 1967 band members have experienced continued difficulties."

Now a new election will be held for one chief and 11 councillors Dec. 6.

A nomination meeting will be held 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, at the Cowichan Indian Centre.

Hovercraft Principle Approved

NANAIMO — City council endorsed the principle of having a Hovercraft operate from downtown Nanaimo to downtown Vancouver.

A communique from Inter-Air (Travel) Limited requesting the endorsement, contained similar endorsements from both the mayor of Victoria and Reeve of West Vancouver.

The company's letter said the Hovercraft would reach speeds of 56 knots while carrying 35 passengers.

It would travel the distance to the mainland in one-fifth the present time needed by ferries, taking only 37 minutes.

Costs for fares would be $6 one way, and $11 return, with half fare for children under 12. Council also endorsed in principle, an eventual leasing of city land near the Arena, for use by the company.

Father Goes To Jail

NANAIMO — A 35-year-old man was given ten years for incest, on one of two counts.

The man had been having illicit affairs with his 17 and 16-year-old daughters for two years, having one child by each of them. The younger is presently pregnant.

He was given the six-year term for his affair with the eldest, and a four-year term to be served consecutively for the affair with the second daughter.

On being charged earlier, court was told he had made advances to a 12-year-old daughter as well.

Time runs out for Eureka sawmill

'Action Cannot Be Delayed' Eureka Mill Must Close

NANAIMO — The indicated closure of Eureka sawmill has become more a fact, as a result of a communication with the president of the company that owns it.

Acting Mayor Jack Parker contacted R. V. Pomplin, president of Anglo-Canadian Timber Products' owner, Georgia Pacific Corporation, in an attempt to dissuade the company from closing the mill.

The answer said, in part, "This action cannot be further delayed."

It said the company had studied the subject for over a year, and the conclusion is that unless the mill is sold to a firm which will continue operation, the mill will close Nov. 30.

Until that time, the company will continue efforts for sale of the mill.

The untimely loss of work has been the concern of IWA 1-80 local president Weldon Jubenville.

He has contacted Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston, asking for a meeting to plan a closure delay.

Mr. Jubenville claims the notice of "less than three weeks" is "totally unacceptable."

Another mill owned by the company, in Vancouver, is also due to close, which would result in 260 men losing work before Christmas.

McKnight Aids Jordon

Candidates Demand More Polls

PORT ALBERNI — The fight over limiting this new large city to just one civic polling place has boiled over again. This time an aldermanic candidate has offered facts to support mayoralty candidate Loran Jordon.

Former alderman George McKnight, running for a seat on the new council, said the letters patrist clearly allow the interim council to set up a number of polling places.

He was backing former mayor Jordon, who blasted Mayor Les Hammer and Deputy Mayor Fred Bishop, for setting up one polling station, in the new Echo recreation centre.

Echo Centre

Mr. Hammer and Mr. Bishop are both running for mayor.

At least three polls were necessary, Mr. Jordon contended, and suggested the two city halls in addition to Echo 67 Centre.

Mayor Hammer and Deputy Mayor Bishop, in a joint statement, explained that under Section 38 of the municipal act, other polling divisions would require a special bylaw and separate individual voters lists, or lists designated with a number or symbol showing exactly who was entitled to vote at each centre.

Time Short

Because of the proximity of amalgamation, Oct. 28, to the final day to file the voters list, Nov. 1, alternate lists could not be prepared and such a bylaw passed in time.

The mayor and deputy mayor felt the single centre would be symbolic of the union of the two old cities, and help avoid charges of parochialism which might otherwise crop up if voters on either side of the old boundary showed a heavy concentration of votes for any one candidate.

Don't Split

"Prejudging other facilities is what we ask, not a division of our newly-joined city," Mr. Jordon retorted.

The candidate said he had checked with Jim Baird of the department of municipal affairs, and that the government official agreed with Mr. Jordon's interpretation of the act.

"Surely," he said, "has 30 or more polling stations."

Quick Reply

"Surely is also the largest municipality in B.C.," Mr. Bishop stated, adding that by the time of the next election the two voters lists will have been corrected, and a suitable system completely set up.

Being one of those former aldermen not burdened by the duties of the interim council, Mr. McKnight had been studying the Letters Patent under which the new city operates.

First Vote

Mr. McKnight's statement says, "Under Section 14 of the letters patent, interim council shall appoint such deputy returning officers as are required to preside at the respective polling places or delegate to the returning officer the power to appoint such deputy returning officers, and otherwise arrange for the holding of the first election."

"Section 16 states that the polling, if any, shall be held at a place or places to be determined by the interim council on the day fixed by the municipal act."

Second Booth

In the light of the interpretation of Section 38 by the department of municipal affairs as quoted by Mr. Jordon, and the wording of the Letters Patent, I think it is well within the powers of the interim council to set up more than one polling booth."

Mr. Jordon said he was pleased with Mr. McKnight's support, since he himself had no way of knowing what was in the Letters Patent.

Two Meetings

"I still say they have time to have a special meeting, a second one to reconsider and pass it, get the required advertisement in the paper, and set up additional polling booths before the election."

Which interpretation of the ruling is correct?

Must there be a special bylaw with voters lists prepared for each polling place, designating who may vote in that area?

LAKE COWICHAN — After 14 years as a member of the Lake Cowichan village council, Chairman Mildred Child will retire at the end of this year.

Her decision to retire from the council has been a rumor for the past few months, but it was only confirmed Monday morning.

Elected to the council in 1952, Mrs. Child has been chairman for the past eight years.

She is succeeded by B. R. (Mac) All, who has been elected by acclamation. Mr. All has served as a councillor for the village for the past 1 1/2 years.

He was nominated by E. S. Towle and H. R. Nash. There will be no election for council members this year.

Trustees Win Easily

NANAIMO — Three persons nominated for mayor, four for a full term as alderman, and two for a one year term, plus a $5,000,000 school referendum and elections for the regional district, will provide a full slate of choices to voters Dec. 8.

For mayor, realtor Frank Ney and retiring aldermen Jack Parker and Ted Barsby were nominated.

For the one-year seat due to the retirement of Mr. Parker, are John Hancock and Bill Hunter.

DE GAULLE TIMING BRILLIANT

From UPI, CP

Some were vehemently critical, some non-committal and one or two Canadians even were in favor of what Gen. de Gaulle had to say in Paris Monday. But all observers found one thing to admire in the statements — the timing was, as they say, magnificent.

The de Gaulle declarations dropped on the provincial premiers' constitutional conference in Toronto like a bomb. They are bound to be the backdrop to the tabling of the first volume of the long-awaited bilingual and biculturalism in the House of Commons this week and they came just as Quebecers took a strong stand for their cause at the Estates General of Canada meeting at the weekend.

Pearson Delays Comment

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson declined to make any immediate comment on President de Gaulle's Quebec statement when he arrived home from his week-long English visit.

He said the statement would be discussed in cabinet today "and if anything is to be said, I will say it in the House."

COMMON MARKET

He could only agree with Martin's preliminary reaction given in the Commons.

Speaking in London, Pearson charged France with falling back on discredited nationalism, emphasized Canada would reject outside intervention in solving its unity problem, and suggested France was wrong in blocking Britain's entry to the European Common Market.

NO NAMES

During his Mansion House Speech, Pearson did not mention de Gaulle by name, nor did he specifically name France as the country blocking the British market bid.

But it was obvious to guests that Pearson had de Gaulle and his policies in mind.

Britain, said Pearson, should

Freedom Political Poison?

OTTAWA (CP) — Are honors from Britain a signal of doom for Canadian prime ministers?

John Diefenbaker didn't say this in so many words, but he noted these facts in an interview Monday:

As prime minister in 1955, Louis St. Laurent received the freedom of the City of London, and was defeated in the general election of 1958.

As prime minister in 1963, Diefenbaker himself received the freedom of the City of London in February, and was defeated in the general election in April.

Prime Minister Pearson received the freedom of the City of London Monday.

"Further observation on my part is unnecessary," Diefenbaker said.

Warships Leave Turkish Harbor

MERSIN, Turkey (AP) — Turkish warships waiting since last week in this southern Mediterranean port for a possible landing on Cyprus steamed off toward an undisclosed destination early today. The latest developments followed a report from Ankara that the cabinet was in a marathon session.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Greece and Cyprus replied "very positively" Monday to Secretary-General Thant's call for restraint to preserve peace in the eastern Mediterranean. Both were said to be conciliatory.

McNamara Going

Bank to Choose Defence Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence Secretary Robert McNamara will be selected as president of the World Bank on Wednesday, it was learned Monday night.

McNamara, U.S. defence chief since 1961, will resign from President Johnson's cabinet to take the $40,000-a-year tax-free post, succeeding George Woods.

His selection of McNamara will be formally accomplished when the board of directors of the international lending organization meets Wednesday.

By custom, the United States nominates a candidate for president of the World Bank. The role goes to the United States because it is the largest single financial contributor to the bank.

McNamara's nomination was forwarded to the bank last week. It was understood President Johnson concurred in the move.

The selection of McNamara for the World Bank job had been reported earlier by the Washington Post and the New York Times.

'Radical Change Needed'

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle, in a wide-ranging press conference Monday, virtually closed the door on British entry into the European Common Market.

De Gaulle said Britain still isn't ready to join Common Market even though the British government has taken steps for financial order — a reference to the recent 14.3-per-cent devaluation of the pound.

In London, British officials indicated de Gaulle's criticism would not lead to withdrawal of the British application for membership.

On Britain's immediate entry into the Common Market, de Gaulle said: "... As sweet as dreams are, realities are there."

Ottawa Blamed

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle of France called Monday for transformation of Canada's political system to project Quebec province "to the level of a sovereign state with mastery of its national existence."

"Of course, this state of Quebec, freely and in equality, must work out with the rest of Canada the details of their co-operation ... and also to face up to the United States invasion," de Gaulle told a news conference.

He charged the Ottawa government with putting French-speaking Canadians "in a position of inferiority."

Holding forth flamboyantly before about 1,000 reporters from around the world, de Gaulle said there is another condition for the solution of "these great problems" in Canada.

"That is the French community on both sides of the Atlantic should organize itself."

Give Stronger Impulse

"In this respect, things are well under way and the forthcoming meeting, we hope, of the Quebec government and the French republic in Paris should give yet a stronger impulse to this great French work, essential to our century."

Also needed for this work were "all the French of Canada who do not reside in Quebec."

"I think in particular of these 250,000 Acadians in New Brunswick who, too, have kept for France — in language and spirit — a very moving fidelity."

De Gaulle waved his arms at times as he told the reporters in rousing terms of his triumphant procession from Quebec City to Montreal in July.

He referred to his Montreal shout of "Vive le Quebec libre" — a "free Quebec" slogan used by separatists in the province. It sparked an uproar which caused the French president to cut short his Canadian visit without going to Ottawa.

In Canada's biggest city, Montreal, "the unfurling of the liberating passion was such that France had the sacred duty to reply solemnly."

Summed Up All My Thought

"That's what I did. I summed up all my thought in crying, 'Vive le Quebec libre!'"

De Gaulle charged that "Anglo-Saxon preponderance" in Canada combined with the "activity, called federal but obviously partial of the Canadian government at Ottawa" to produce an increasingly inferior position for "the French" and expose to "growing danger their language, substance and character."

But despite all, there had been a sweeping renewal among "the French people across the Atlantic."

The French president consistently referred to French-speaking Canadians as simply "French."

In view of this renewal, said de Gaulle, he had been invited to Quebec by Premier Johnson.

"That Quebec should be free ... was the irreversible situation demonstrated and accelerated by the public spirit during my trip."

'Return To Gold'

PARIS (UPI) — The week-long gold-buying rampage, with its threats to the U.S. dollar, showed signs of waning in London and Zurich Monday but hit a frantic new high here.

At the same time President de Gaulle denied any French responsibility for the run on gold, and launched a bitter attack against the dollar in a news conference.

He repeated earlier demands for a return to an international gold standard — something the U.S. has repeatedly rejected. His attack was regarded as close to a declaration of financial "war" against the U.S. and Britain.

Gold dealers said it would not be known until markets reopen today whether de Gaulle's attack would touch off a hectic new gold-buying spree.

Portuguese Floods Kill 316

LISBON (AP) — The death toll from weekend floods that struck west-central Portugal has risen to 316, the interior ministry announced Monday night.

Reports throughout the day told of further discoveries of mud-caked bodies beneath the ruins of dwellings and in lakes and streams after heavy rains led to flooding of an area of 350 square miles near Lisbon.

'It's Time to Call Alaska's Bluff'

Premier Bennett kept silent Monday on a proposal for an all-American ferry route between Alaska and Seattle, but at least one B.C. minister suggested that now might be the time to call Governor Walter Hickel's bluff.

The present impasse was precipitated last week when Mr. Bennett announced that the Queen of Prince Rupert would not be put back into the Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert service until next April 1.

The $6,500,000 flagship of the B.C. ferry fleet has been undergoing extensive repairs at a North Vancouver shipyard since she was heavily damaged on a rock near Alert Bay last Aug. 11.

'FULL OF GOODWILL'

When the premier was asked Monday to comment on a formal request by the governor for permission to operate Alaskan state ferries from the present southern terminal at Prince Rupert to Seattle, Mr. Bennett said:

"I've no comment to make. Christmas is coming and I'm full of goodwill."

Earlier, however, the premier rejected an appeal by Governor Hickel for a temporary service to link up with Alaskan state ferries at Prince Rupert. This resulted in Alaska's formal request for the U.S. Coast Guard

Victoria's Gesture Made It Real Christmas

For a week before Christmas last year, a small, neat woman appeared in the toy store each day, to check on the gifts she had laid away for her four young children.

Discharged from hospital on Dec. 17 after removal of a growth in her neck, she had no idea how she would pay for the toys, or give the children any of the extras that would make their Christmas special.

Half of her mind was with one of the children, also in hospital, but due home from the warm, decorated ward to share a more sombre day with the rest of the family.

"When I got the 500 Fund cheque in the mail just before Christmas, it was a real Godsend," she said.

"That $30 meant toys, turkey and all the trimmings — we were even able to get a box of oranges and some nuts.

"It meant that when my daughter came home it was a real Christmas, and it was all made possible by the people of Victoria."

With a month to go in the annual appeal by the Colonist, Victorians poured nearly $300 into the fund Monday, to assure each recipient at least $3.46 to spend on extras.

Pupils in Division 5 at Glen Lake elementary school sent along $8 from the sale of lawn furniture made by the class.

A contribution also arrived in the office from former Victorians now living in Halifax.

Karen, Bruce and Wendy Irving sent along $6 "with love to Victoria."
